More taxes, less energy pushed

Ford challenges Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has challenged Congress and the public to accept higher taxes and less energy as part of an anti-inflation program that also includes jobs for the unemployed and stepped-up production to halt food price increases.

Congress is showing itself willing to cooperate up to a point.

Comments by many lawmakers indicated that the point at which many of them would balk is enactment of a 5 per cent surcharge on the tax levied on incomes above $15,000 for a family and $7,500 for a single person.

"I am aware that any proposal for new taxes just four weeks before a national election is — to put it mildly — considered politically unwise ...," Ford said Tuesday at a nationally televised and broadcast joint session of the House and Senate.

"But I do say in all sincerity I will not play politics with America's future ... This is the acid test of our joint determination to whip inflation."

Appealing over the heads of the lawmakers in the floodlit House chamber, he asked his nationwide audience to "grow more, waste less ... drive less, heat less ... share with others."

Congressional leaders moved fast on two measures Ford targeted for immediate action: a resolution to hold spending at $300 billion, $5 billion under earlier estimates, and legislation he said would clear the way for the government to pour $3 billion into the ailing home market, enough for 100,000 homes, by buying conventional as well as government-insured mortgages.

Leaders conferred on ways to cut procedural corners and send these two measures to Ford by Friday, the day Congress is scheduled to begin a month's campaigning recess. Some said they would consider postponing the recess, but plans were being made to avoid a postponement.

Ford's longer-term program ranged over the issues of taxes, food production, employment, energy, capital building and price-raising practices both of the government and the private sector.

The proposed surcharge would apply to corporate income and to private incomes above the specified levels. An individual taxpayer would compute his tax in the usual way, then add 5 per cent to the tax on that part of his income above the specified levels — $7,500 for a single person and $15,000 for a couple.

The surcharge would be in effect for a year only and Ford said, "I would not ask this if major loopholes were not being closed by the Ways and Means Tax Reform Bill."

Some congressmen said the personal income surcharge had no chance, others that increasing public concern on inflation might put it over, and many that it could be enacted if the income floor were raised to $20,000, $25,000 or some higher figure.

He said the tax measures he is seeking would raise an estimated $5 billion, which "should pay for all the new programs I have recommended in this message."

Saying that low- and middle income Americans have been hard hit by inflation, Ford added, "The tax reform bill now in the House Committee on Ways and Means, which I favor, already provides approximately $1.6 billion of tax relief to these groups."

Principal provisions of the committee bill that favor low and middle income taxpayers relate to standard deductions used by those who do not itemize on their tax returns.

At present, a taxpayer may take a standard deduction of 15 per cent of income up to a top deduction of $2,000. The bill would increase the percentage to 17 and the ceiling to $2,500.

To help low income taxpayers, there is in present law also a provision for a flat deduction of $1,300 anyone may take, regardless of what percentage of income this is. The bill would raise the deduction to $1,400 for single taxpayers and $1,500 for couples.

"To halt higher food prices, we must produce more food," Ford said. He asked Congress to remove acreage limitations on rice, peanuts and cotton and said he would allocate to farmers all the fuel and seek authority to allocate all the fertilizer they need.

Fire Prevention Week being observed

"Prometheus with the aid of Minerva, went up to heaven, and lighted his torch at the chariot of the sun, and brought down fire to man. With this gift, man was more than a match for all other animals. It enabled him to make weapons wherewith to subdue them; tools with which to cultivate the earth; to warm his dwelling, so as to be comparatively independent of climate; and finally to introduce the arts and to coin money, the means of trade and commerce."

This is Thomas Bulfinch's explanation of how the Greeks believed man received fire, in his book, "Bulfinch's Mythology."

Whether the god Prometheus was responsible for giving man fire or whether early man learned how to master this useful tool by observing lightning which had struck trees and ignited them, does not matter; the point is fire is here to stay and although life without it would probably cease to exist, life with it is often taken away by it. This is "National Fire Prevention Week" and a good time to remember the do's and don'ts of fire prevention.

Almost 100 years ago today, 250 persons were killed and 17,430 buildings valued at $168 million, were destroyed in the "Great Chicago Fire of 1871." The anniversary of this disaster officially created "National Fire

JUST IN CASE — Pupils from Belle Aire Elementary School had a pleasant day for a fire drill. It was nice to leave the ol' desk and walk into the sunshine for a couple minutes, but on a deeper level of analysis; if there had been an actual fire, the kids probably would have been saved. They filed out of the building in an orderly fashion, without talking, and did just what they had been taught to do. It took 45 seconds to clear the school and assistant fire chief John Rockhold (in background, middle of photo), who was timing the drill, commented "that was pretty good!" The Washington C.H. Fire Department is scheduling fire drills at all city schools, along with fire prevention lectures and fire extinguisher demonstrations, in observance of "National Fire Prevention Week," Oct. 6-12.

Tax surcharge plan under fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressmen have indicated little support for President Ford's call on middle-income families to foot most of the bill for the fight against inflation.

Although there was general praise for other Ford initiatives for relieving the depressed housing industry and spurring business investment, many Democrats and some Republicans were critical of the President's proposed 5 per cent surtax on family incomes above $15,000.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott suggested the surtax take effect above the $20,000 level; Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York suggested $25,000. House Speaker Carl Albert urged a staggered surtax; Sen. Paul Fannin, R-Ariz., ruled out the tax entirely until every effort is made to cut federal spending.

In an address to a joint session of Congress Tuesday, Ford outlined the inflation-fighting proposals that he said will require sacrifice by all Americans.

At the center of what the President called his grand design was the suggested 5 per cent levy on taxes paid on family incomes above $15,000 a year, on individual incomes above $7,500, and on corporations.

The special tax on individuals would bring in an estimated $2.6 billion of the $4.7 billion necessary to pay for public-service jobs when the national unemployment rate exceeds 6 per cent and for other anti-inflation programs.

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., and

Sen. William Brock, R-Tenn., pledged support for the surtax.

Other congressmen said they cannot justify further taxation of middle-income families until loopholes that allow the wealthy and the major oil companies to avoid their fair share of taxes are closed.

Business leaders applauded Ford's proposals. "We congratulate the President on his broad program to win the fight against inflation," said

Richard C. Gerstenberg, board chairman of General Motors Corp.

Henry Ford II of the Ford Motor Co. said, "The President's program appears to me to be a comprehensive start in a unified attack on the most serious problem facing the United States and all the nations of the world right now."

"It sounds like a vigorous, well thought out program," said Donald T. Regan, chairman of Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc., the nation's largest brokerage house.

Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., called the tax proposal "outrageous." Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., termed it a "ripoff." House Democratic Leader Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., viewed it as "extremely unfair."

There was little indication that Congress would attempt to push through many of the Ford proposals before the month-long pre-election recess due to begin Friday. But Speaker Albert said he would favor delaying that recess if doing so would result in quick action on the Ford program.

Republican U.S. Sen. Robert Taft Jr., Ohio's senior senator, called President Ford's proposed tax surcharge bitter but necessary medicine on Tuesday night. Those were about the kindest words from Ohio politicians.

Taft said Ford showed "great courage and candor in telling us the castor oil and the tonics needed to cure the inflationary disease."

"The bitterness of the added 5 per cent tax burden will be hard for some to swallow," Taft said, "but I agree it is needed and equitable."

But other political leaders rejected the proposals.

"The President's surtax is ill-conceived, and the prospects for its passage are not good," said Rep. Charles A. Vanik, a Democrat. "It

Big New York bank fails

NEW YORK (AP) — The biggest bank failure in the nation's history doesn't mean other collapses are looming elsewhere in the industry, federal officials say.

New York's Franklin National Bank, once the nation's 20th largest commercial bank, was declared insolvent by the Treasury Department Tuesday. Most of its operations were sold to a company owned by six of Europe's biggest banks.

"It would be a mistake to view this incident as one generally shared by the banking industry," said Frank Wille, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., which was named as receiver for Franklin.

"Franklin's problems were rooted in earnings problems over the years which were exacerbated and exaggerated by foreign exchange losses in May," Wille said.

European-American Bank & Trust Co. paid a purchase premium of $125 million for $1.7 billion of Franklin National's assets. The purchase included Franklin's branch offices, deposits and offsetting liabilities. The FDIC promised European-American a $150 million loan to meet federal deposit requirements, and the foreign-owned company said it planned to draw on $100 million of the loan for now.

Franklin's trust operations were turned over to Bradford Trust Co. of New York, which the New York State Banking Department said had already been handling some of the department's operations on a contract basis.

The FDIC itself took over $2.08 billion in Franklin assets which had served as collateral for $1.7 billion in loans made to the bank by the Federal Reserve System in what was described at the time as the biggest rescue operation ever mounted by the nation's central banking system. The FDIC planned to liquidate the assets over three years to repay the Federal Reserve.

Terrorists ready to free hostages

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The American ambassador says six leftist terrorists have agreed to release the hostages they have held for 12 days in the Venezuelan consulate in exchange for safe conduct out of the Dominican Republic.

"We are now negotiating final details and we cannot say how long this will take," Ambassador Robert Hurwitch told newsmen Tuesday evening.

Hurwitch said he did not know where the terrorists would choose to fly or what country would agree to receive them. There was speculation they would fly to Mexico, Peru or Algeria.

The announcement came less than 24 hours after Dominican President Joaquin Balaguer made a "final, definitive and irrevocable" offer to guarantee the safe passage of the terrorists if they release the seven hostages. Until then, the government had refused to negotiate and demanded the unconditional surrender of the gunmen.

On Sept. 27, the terrorists kidnaped Barbara A. Hutchison, 47, the head of the U.S. Information Service here, and took her from outside her office to the consulate. There they captured two Venezuelan consuls, two office workers, a Spanish priest and a Dominican messenger and holed up with the group on the second floor.

The original demands included $1 million in cash and the release of 37 political prisoners, but the cash demand was dropped and the prisoner list reduced last week. In the end, the terrorists apparently abandoned all their demands except for safe conduct.

Hurwitch talked to newsmen after he, the Spanish ambassador and the Venezuelan charge d'affaires conferred with national police chief Gen. Rafael Guzman Acosta and rebel chief Radhames Mendez Vargas.

The American ambassador said, "I talked to Barbara Hutchison about 10 minutes ago (by telephone) and she was, of course, very happy about the situation." He called her "an exemplary official who has been just great."

Mendez, 32, the leader of the terrorists, claims membership in the "Jan. 12 Movement," a small, pro-Communist guerrilla group. Six months before the siege Mendez was released from jail after serving four years for hijacking an airliner.

Want WIN pin? Write Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) "Dear President Ford:

"I enlist as an Inflation Fighter and Energy Saver for the duration. I will do the very best I can for America."

Print your name, address and zip code. Send it to the President. He will send you a button, free.

The button will say WIN. In white capital letters on red.

President Ford, in his economic address to congress Tuesday, called it the symbol of a new mobilization.

A modern-day V-for-Victory, the galvanizing Churchillian gesture of World War II vintage. An economic "Remember the Maine," which whipped up enthusiasm for the Spanish-American War.

Alas, the President failed to say what WIN means.

In showing the button, Ford said only: "It bears the single word WIN. That tells it all."

Not quite. You have to look through the speech to find the phrase, "Whip Inflation Now." It appears twice.

A White House spokesman said speechwriters slipped up by not having Ford explain that WIN referred to that phrase. But the button offer, nonetheless, is genuine. The address is the White House, Washington, D.C. 20500.

The President told the joint session he will elaborate next week on the volunteer Inflation Fighters and Energy Savers program, which he said will be manned by 18 distinguished people.

"There will be no big new federal bureaucracy set up for this crash program," he said. The volunteers will come from the communications media.

The American Newspaper Publishers Association took up the call and urged all newspapers to publish the enlistment coupon.

Improved auto mileage could become mandatory

WASHINGTON (AP) — If President Ford gets his way, automobiles will carry their passengers an average of five miles farther on a gallon of gasoline in 1978 than they do now.

Outlining energy policies Tuesday in a wide-ranging economic address to Congress, the President said he will personally meet with auto industry top management to seek a 40 per cent improvement in gasoline mileage within four years.

That pledge elevates the administration's effort from the agency level — Federal Energy Administrator John C. Sawhill has been after the auto makers since last summer — to the presidential level.

And Ford added that he would go after the mileage improvement "either by agreement or by law," a warning that he might seek something like a horsepower tax or a mandatory fuel-economy standard for automobiles if auto makers don't cooperate voluntarily.

Automobiles in the United States now deliver an average of around 13 miles per gallon; Ford's goal would raise the average to about 18 miles per gallon, probably through a combination of new engine designs and a higher proportion of small cars.

The President made no estimate as to the savings in gasoline which might accrue from increased mileage.

Ford's energy policies endorsed Sawhill's insistence on a campaign to save fuel, but Ford discarded proposals to slap new taxes or surcharges on gasoline, electricity and natural gas, relying instead on appeals for voluntary energy conservation.

However, he did propose a requirement that steam-electric power plants be run on coal or nuclear energy, instead of oil or natural gas.

If adopted, this would rule out further construction of large oil or gas-powered plants and would require many already in existence to switch to coal.

Ford said his aim was to eliminate basic oil and gas-fired electric generation by 1980.

Ford said he would resubmit amendments to the Clean Air Act on which Congress previously failed to act.

Ford also announced orders to reorganize federal energy efforts, with the creation of a new National Energy Board.

He named Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton as "the over-all boss of our national energy program," transferring that power from Treasury Secretary William E. Simon.

Price-fixing crackdown given push

WASHINGTON (AP) — Butchers, bakers and zippermakers already are feeling heat from the Ford administration's campaign against price-fixing. Future targets may face tougher treatment and million-dollar fines.

President Ford gave the attack fresh impetus Tuesday when he promised stern enforcement of antitrust laws and asked Congress for harsh penalties for violators.

No President since Harry S. Truman has taken such a strong public stand against illegal corporate conspiracies, said government antitrust lawyers.

The administration attack is designed to end business practices which diminish competition and force prices up for the consumer.

Assistant Atty. Gen. Thomas E. Kauper, head of the Justice Department's antitrust division, has estimated that such practices cost Americans as much as $80 million a year.

"I am determined to return to the vigorous enforcement of antitrust laws," Ford said as he sent Congress proposed legislation raising the maximum fine for antitrust violators from $50,000 to $1 million for corporations and $100,000 for individuals.

With his statement, Ford took up an attack which has been gaining momentum in the department and the Federal Trade Commission.

Though he endorsed its key elements, Ford said nothing about Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe's plea for stiffer prison sentences as well as fines for corporate conspirators.

Saxbe called on Friday for legislation raising the maximum prison term for price fixing from one year to five years.

Ford's written proposals for tougher fines were sent immediately to Congress where a House committee earlier in the day approved legislation setting the maximum corporate fine at half the amount Ford asked. The bill sets the individual fine at $100,000, as the President requested.

House scraps big changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has scrapped a proposal for sweeping reform of its committee structure in favor of a bill making minor changes in House procedures.

A 203-165 vote in favor of the alternate proposal ended an 18-month effort, based on a $1.5 million study, aimed at making the House more responsive to present-day needs.

Strong opposition from members whose committee assignments would be upset and from special interest groups accustomed to the present structure defeated the plan recommended by the reform committee.

The bill adopted in its place leaves committee jurisdictions largely unchanged. It would change the name of one committee from Interstate and Foreign Commerce to Commerce and Health.

Ford's testimony off for week

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's grilling by a House Judiciary subcommittee has been put off to a week from Thursday to avoid risking interference with the Watergate cover-up trial.

Chairman William L. Hungate, D-Mo., announced Tuesday that his subcommittee made the decision with White House concurrence "to afford

Food outlook tight despite promises

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even if President Ford delivers to farmers all he promised in his economic message to Congress, the deck is stacked against substantial food price relief to consumers before 1976.

Ford said soaring food and energy prices are "primary inflationary factors" and noted the country depends in part on foreign supply for oil.

"But we can grow more than enough food for ourselves," Ford said. "To halt higher food prices, we must produce more food."

Ford promised that the government would do all it could to assure farmers they can sell what they grow at "reasonable prices" and pledged muscle to see they get enough fuel and fertilizer to do the job.

But he could not promise clear skies next April and May, when farmers want to plant corn and soybeans. He could not pledge an essential two inches of rain needed next July and August.

Too much rain last spring delayed planting, and too little last summer cut deeply into 1974 grain production.

Early freezes this fall have killed much of the late-planted corn and ample time for selection and sequestration of the Watergate jury."

Hungate said his 6 p.m. EDT announcement that the Ford testimony, which had been scheduled for Thursday morning, would be postponed was triggered moments earlier by word from the court that the jury had not been selected.

He said he did not talk to U.S. District

Judge John Sirica and was given no indication how soon the closed-door jury selection might be completed.

At the courthouse, Todd Christofferson, Sirica's law clerk, told newsmen that on the judge's instructions he had called Hungate's office to pass the word that there was little chance of completing selection of a jury before Thursday.

Christofferson also quoted the judge as saying he remained hopeful of having a jury by the end of the week and that he felt jury selection was progressing well.

Tuesday was the sixth day of the search for 12 unbiased jurors and six alternates. The process continued to be carried out behind the closed, guarded doors of Courtroom No. 2, with all parties under orders from Sirica to say nothing.

Hungate said the subcommittee reached an understanding Monday to postpone Ford's testimony if there was no jury by 6 p.m. Tuesday because of the advance time needed for security and other arrangements for a president's appearance.

"You can't just wait around until the last minute and if they haven't got a jury tell the President to come back tomorrow," Hungate said.

Ford has agreed to answer 14 questions on his pardon of former President Richard M. Nixon and subcommittee members are to question him for elaboration on his answers.

The 14 questions include whether Ford knew of any pending criminal charges against Nixon when he granted the pardon, whether negotiations for it began before Nixon resigned and what Ford knew about Nixon's health.

Hungate said the subcommittee will be limited to the 14 questions.

Plan rapped

taxes the victims of inflation rather than the culprits.

"Shifting the burden of inflation solves nothing," Vanik said. "His plan would fuel inflation rather than retard it."

Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, said he was "really disappointed" by the President's proposals.

"You don't solve inflation by telling middle class Americans to drive less, eat less and pull in their belts more," Stokes said. "The middle class has been carrying the burden of inflation and taxes all along."

Rep. Clarence Brown, R-Ohio, said he "admired the candor of the President's speech because that honesty is needed in the consideration of today's economic circumstances." But he said he would not vote against the tax surcharge as it was proposed.

"I would have preferred...that the President stress a more hard-nosed attitude about reducing federal spending instead of the 5 per cent surcharge on income taxes of middle income wage earners, who are currently the major support of federal taxes and are among the hardest hit by inflation," Brown said.

In Ohio's 1st Congressional District, both Democratic Rep. Thomas Luken and Republican candidate Willis D. Gradison Jr. criticized the surcharge, saying it would hit too hard at middle Americans.

Most other Ohio political candidates had no immediate comment on the proposals.

Democratic senatorial candidate John Glenn said he would not comment on specific parts of the plan until he had had time to study it. But he said he was "gratified to see that the President covered many of those things which I have proposed."

He said those included an end to deficit spending, a national energy policy, tax reform, industry incentives, enforcement of anti-trust laws and government employment programs.

Glenn's opponent, Cleveland Mayor Ralph Perk, was not available for comment. His staff said he was enroute to Washington for a White House dinner.

A spokesman for Democratic Gov. John J. Gilligan said the governor had not heard the speech and would have no comment until after he'd studied it.

A spokesman for Republican gubernatorial candidate, former Gov. James A. Rhodes, referred newsmen to a statement issued earlier in the day which said Gilligan was the chief cause of inflation in Ohio.

More taxes

the House Agriculture Committee, however, said that without more assurances of profit Ford's measures would not do the job.

Ford said marketing orders and other regulations were being reviewed to end or change those responsible for inflated prices.

He proposed extended special unemployment benefits and creation of a temporary Community Improvement Corps that would go into action when national unemployment exceeded 6 per cent, providing "short-term useful work projects to improve, beautify and enhance the environment of our cities, towns and countryside."

On energy, Ford told Congress, "If you've forgotten the shortages of last winter, most Americans have not."

He called on Congress to deregulate natural gas prices, open up Navy oil reserves in California and Alaska, modify environmental strictures on use of fuel and pass surface mining legislation balancing considerations of supply with environmental protection.

He also announced creation of a National Energy Board, headed by Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton, to develop a national energy program, with instructions to reduce imports of foreign oil by one million barrels a day by the end of 1975.

Stock list erratic

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market responded erratically to President Ford's new economic plan today, slipping a bit at the outset but recovering again at midday.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 2.19 at 604.82, although losers held onto a small lead over gainers in quiet trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said they had expected the market to waver uncertainly for a while as investors assessed the proposals outlined by Ford in an address to a joint session of Congress Tuesday afternoon.

A number of individual stock groups registered favorable responses to the Ford message.

The Dow Jones average of 15 utilities, for example, was up .35 at 63.55, with an apparent lift from tax proposals by the President aimed at relieving utilities' capital-raising problems.

Coals gained strongly on Ford's call for conversion of all oil-fired power plants to coal or nuclear power by 1980. North American Coal climbed 2 3/4 to 24 1/4, and Pittston was ahead 1 3/4 at 29 1/4.

IBM, which introduced a new data storage system, was up 1 1/4 at 163 1/4.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks rose .20 to 63.44. TMC Mortgage Investors was the Amex volume leader, down 2 1/4 to 10 1/4.

Martha wants more cash from John

NEW YORK (AP) — Martha Mitchell's lawyer says she needs more money to cope with the high cost of living. But an attorney for her husband says she is living pretty high already.

The conflict arose Tuesday during a Manhattan state Supreme Court hearing as Mrs. Mitchell pressed her petition for $3,000 a week temporary alimony and $35,000 in counsel fees from her estranged husband, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

As Mrs. Mitchell sat in a spectator's seat, her lawyer, Richard Creditor, said "She has made some money from public appearances. She was forced to do so, particularly in view of the high cost of living."

Mrs. Mitchell's financial situation was "dire," Creditor added, and she has been forced to support herself by "doing things which are not in her best interest."

But lawyer Marvin Segal noted that his client Mitchell was in Washington, where he is on trial on charges of taking part in the Watergate cover-up.

He could not consult his client and needed more time, Segal said. He added that arrangements were in progress to give Mrs. Mitchell a payment "so that the problem of subsistence will be adequately covered."

Fear more Boston school outbreaks

BOSTON (AP) — Attendance at Boston's tense high schools fell off today following racial violence during the fourth week of court-ordered busing for desegregation.

Although complete figures were not immediately available, a School Department spokesman said, "It seems that attendances in the high schools are down."

At English High, scene of a pupil-police melee Tuesday, 400 pupils showed up out of an enrollment of about 2,500. The enrollment is half white and half black, but twice as many blacks as whites were present today.

School Supt. William J. Leary said he would be available to meet with the Executive Committee of the Boston Teachers' Union. Leary on Tuesday night rejected the union's request that he close the schools because of what the union called "a rapidly deteriorating situation."

Mayor Kevin White commended Leary for "resisting the union pressure by keeping the schools open." White called the union request "ill-conceived and unwise."

Opinion And Comment

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

Doughnut hole grows bigger

Doughnuts, at a New York City grocery chain, have gone from 20 cents each to 30 cents. You are paying for a bigger hole.

You don't even get sugar or chocolate coating with the 30-cent sinker. Such are the realities of life in the marketplace. Yet, with 1,200-odd alleged economic thinkers assemble in Washington D.C., to give President Ford the benefit of their views, their predominant theme is how to fight recession, not inflation. They not only want to preserve, they want to extend, the social services and the assorted subsidies that we have come to take for granted during 40 years of an inflation psychology.

Nobody is psychologically prepared to take a cutback. The unions, in addition to unemployment insurance, want a new WPA. Population growth may have leveled off, but contractors want cheaper mortgage money. Shipyards with facilities to construct much-needed offshore drilling equipment would not seem to be in overwhelming need of new ship construction contracts, but some of the big brains in Congress think we should compel the Persian Gulf oil states to send a certain fixed percentage of their oil to us in American-built bottoms.

(This, of course, would add a few pennies to the price of gasoline.)

In New York City, Mayor Beame wants Jerry Ford's personal assurance that the Federal government will underwrite the continuation of the 35-cent subway fare. Investors want a better break for capital gains. The State Department thinks poorly of cutting back on foreign aid, some of which goes to the oil-rich Arab states.

This column has had plenty of reason to disagree with Professor John Kenneth Galbraith over the years, but for once it must commend Harvard's Number One interventionist-minded economist for hitting the nail on the head in a public statement. After listening to the economic non-sequiturs of his colleagues who are presuming to guide President Ford, Galbraith noted rather wryly that they were still far more concerned with the fate of public spending projects than they were with inflation. Galbraith could only conclude that fighting recession was much more fun than trying to rescue the dollar.

When we worked together on Fortune magazine, Galbraith used to kid me for being a "Puritan" about economics. In the affluent atmosphere of the late 1940s and the '50s, Galbraith prided himself on being a "Rumanian" about loading the economy with subsidies and public projects. Now, in his late middle age, he is becoming something of a Puritan himself. Or, if not that, he has at least decided to call things by their right names.

The point is that we don't really mean business about fighting inflation. If we did, the government would not have convened in Washington all those wonderful folks of the '50s and '60s who brought us our financial Pearl Harbor by their talk of fine-tuning the economy. The wonderful folks, Keynesian to the marrow, made some obeisance to the necessity of restraining Federal spending, but they offered no way of closing what anti-Keynesians such as economist Gary North call the "agency debt loophole."

The U.S. is committed to the continuation and amplification of such "independent" public agencies as the Postal Service, the Tennessee Valley Authority, Amtrak, the Rural Electrification Agency, the Overseas Private Investment Corporation and whatnot, all of which are entitled by law to go into debt as they please with the "full faith and credit" backing of the Federal government. Gary North estimates that the total debt load of Federal agencies jumped from $1.6 billion in 1947 to 71.3 billion in 1973. These debts don't even get into the Federal government's budget, which Congress never seems able to bring into balance.

If we really meant business about ending the inflation, we would be doing such things as removing the controls on natural gas at the well head, or telling the shipyards that they had better rely on building drilling rigs than expensive U.S.-owned oil tankers. We would be preparing to let mail-carrying contracts to the highest private bidder. We would be cutting back on food stamps and telling local officials to emulate Detroit's "Potato Patch" Pingree of the 1890s who made city plots available to private citizens to raise some of their own food. We would begin exalting the voluntary association over the TVA and the Overseas Investment Corporation.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

On April 27, 1973 at 9:50 a.m., Governor Gilligan issued an executive order dividing Ohio into 11 service districts. At the exact same hour he issued another executive order establishing 15 planning regions. Planning area six and service area six are identical and consist of Fayette, Pickaway, Fairfield, Licking, Delaware, Union, Madison and Franklin counties.

The Mid-Ohio Regional Planning Commission, under the auspices of the Ohio Department of Economic and Community Development, has been for the last two years trying to set up and organize this planning area. Franklin County has 71 per cent of the population and, therefore, seems to feel they should be able to completely dominate all other seven counties. They have objected to the inclusion of any meaningful protective clauses in either the allocation of voting strength or bylaws. Hence, the hangup as far as the smaller counties are concerned.

Last time I discussed with you how Governor Gilligan's Commission on Local Government Services recommended elimination of elective local officials and make them appointive by the county commissioners. I also predicted that within two years county commissioners themselves would be eliminated. I then asked the question what would take the place of all this?

I believe with Governor Gilligan's setup of either service districts or planning areas (11 of one and 15 of the other) we have the vehicle which could step in and administer local government.

Under this plan, there would be at the outset a governing body, selected in some manner not precisely defined and outlined at this time. This is not too important because, once the framework of the organization is established, such as details of allocating voting strength, financing, composition of standing committees and etc. could be determined by those having the preponderance of voting strength. In our case, this would be either Franklin County alone or Franklin and one other county.

The whole composite picture, to me, falls in place when you stand back and take an overall look at the planning areas, service areas and the recommendations of the Ohio Commission on Local Government Services.

So, the question boils down to this: Is all of this a planned scheme to eliminate counties as basic units of government and replace them with 11 service districts or 15 planning areas? This would give us the dubious "advantage" of being helped by experts from the university (any university). Perhaps, I am overly skeptical, but when I see some of the antics on the part of state and national officials I get nervous. Your judgment is as good as mine.

J. Herbert Perrill
County Commissioner

P.S. Did you know a foundation project carried out at Harvard University made a study of the Indo-Australian ant at a cost of $70,000? The study was terminated because, as an official explained, "we were not readily able to describe the purpose of the research."

No fooling!

Another View

Ohio Perspective

It's Esposito against Barone

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Smith is challenging incumbent Brown for attorney general in the Nov. 5 election. It could just as easily have been George Esposito versus William Barone.

George Smith, Franklin County prosecutor, said his late father changed the family name from Esposito before he was born. He doesn't remember why and isn't sure he ever did know the reason.

William J. Brown, the attorney general, traces his Italian name of Barone back to his grandfather, who changed to Brown at the suggestion of a banker.

Brown said the banker wouldn't lend money to anyone with a "strange" name like Barone, but was happy to advance Mr. Brown $837 to buy a new car.

Based on the abundance of elected Ohio officials with the same surname, it would appear "Billy Joe" Brown got the better of the name-change deal.

Brown, youngest man ever elected attorney general in Ohio, conceded "you've got to be extremely lucky" to gain statewide office at an age of 31.

"I was the best man for the job in 1970," he added without hesitating.

Brown was elected in a Democratic landslide that saw only two Republicans survive in statewide contests.

Now 34, the usually brash attorney general agreed that he probably benefited from some on-the-job training during his first term. He is standing for re-election on what a press release called "an impressive record of legal and administrative achievement in place of the chaos and massive backlogs he inherited from previous attorneys general."

He was born in Youngstown and reared in Cadiz. He was graduated from Duquesne University and Ohio Northern Law School. Brown began practicing law with the Office of Economic Opportunity and was with a private firm in Lisbon, Ohio, when he won the Democratic nomination for attorney general in 1970.

Last summer he relinquished his status as one of the capitol's most eligible bachelors. His wife Cheryl is a former Youngstown nurse.

Brown has little to say about his opponent and generally does not issue formal responses to Smith's broadsides.

Recently, however, Brown asked Gov. Gilligan for additional authority to investigate possible election law violations within the statewide Democratic party after Smith accused him of foot-dragging on a federal report.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Give Bully an out-of-school lesson

DEAR ABBY: If someone tries to pick a fight with you at school and you have done everything you can to avoid a fight, but that persons starts pusing you around, and you have to use force to defend yourself, do you think it's fair that the person who was trying to defend himself should get punished just the same as the troublemaker?

What is a person supposed to do when he is picked on by someone who is trying to get him into a fight? I am not going to just stand there and let him push me around. Fighting is against the rules on our schoolgrounds.

UNFAIRLY PUNISHED

DEAR UN: When someone tries to provoke a fight by pushing you around, instead of pushing HIM around, report him to the authorities.

This may sound like the chicken's way out, but it's the only way to protect yourself from the punishment of breaking the "no fighting" rules at your school. (P.S. You might consider taking some lessons in self-defense, and give that bully a surprise lesson in case he ever tries to push you around OFF the schoolgrounds.)

DEAR ABBY: I read about that mother who never wanted children but she accidentally had two anyway. She said not all women were cut out to be mothers, and she was one of them.

She may be interested in my story: My husband and I always wanted a large family. Ten months after we were married I gave birth to a healthy baby boy. We couldn't wait to have more.

Twelve miscarriages later, I had another son. He was born dead.

A year later, I gave birth to another son.

Eighteen months later, a third son was born, but we soon discovered that our second and third sons were both severely deaf.

They needed special education. After thousands of dollars worth of tutoring and much hard work, our two deaf sons are now able to talk nearly as well as our normal son.

I wanted children desperately, and their being handicapped doesn't make us love them any less. Some handicaps can be overcome.

I hope that mother realizes that in her refusal to love her children she is handicapped. And I hope she overcomes her handicap before it handicaps her unloved children.

LUCKY IN ILLINOIS.

DEAR LUCKY: Your children are lucky too. God bless you.

DEAR ABBY: Three cheers for the young mother who had the courage to admit that she felt "stuck" with her two kids who were both accidentals.

I have one child, but she wasn't an accident. I really wanted a child, but I soon realized that I wasn't cut out to be a mother. I have never abused my child, but I am positive I do not want another one.

Now if my in-laws and friends would just leave me alone, and quit telling me how "wrong" it is to raise only one child, I would appreciate it.

And if this letter is printed, I hope my husband's family in New Jersey reads it and sees the light. Thank you.

ONE IS BEAUTIFUL IN N.Y.

DEAR ONE: Leave nothing so important to chance. Clip this column and mail it to them.

CONFIDENTIAL TO J. IN MINNEAPOLIS: Tell your husband that you'll lose 10 pounds if he'll lose 20. I can't think of a way to have a closer relationship.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Ohio political debates slated

By The Associated Press
Debating has captured the minds of Ohio political candidates, with challenges in the secretary of state and attorney general races.

Franklin County Prosecutor George Smith, Republican candidate for attorney general, accused incumbent

William J. Brown of refusing five times to debate him. Brown's staff said it wasn't so.

Mike D'Angelo, Brown's campaign manager, said Brown has agreed to meet Smith in a debate Oct. 23 at the Cuyahoga County Bar Association. He said Brown turned down an Oct. 21 debate at the Cleveland City Club because it was too close to the other Cleveland debate.

Tony Hall, Democratic nominee for secretary of state, Tuesday asked incumbent Ted W. Brown to debate him on a broadcast program in an effort "toward clearing the air of several issues in this campaign which my opponent has chosen to ignore."

A staff member in Brown's office said he was uncertain whether Brown would accept.

In an appearance in Toledo, senate candidate John Glenn called for a four-point health program which he said would help combat the rising cost of medical care and insure better uniformity of care for Americans.

In a speech before the staff and faculty of the Medical College of Ohio, Glenn described America as "the last major industrialized nation not to have a form of national health insurance or general health care program" to protect families against the cost of catastrophic illness.

Glenn's opponent, Republican Ralph Perk, again denied rumors he was planning to drop out of the senate race.

In a Cleveland news conference, Perk said the "rumors were obviously deliberate lies."

"I am still in the race — I am in excellent health — and nothing agrees with me more than campaigning. I draw strength from the people."

"When I enter a race, I intend to stay in and to win — especially one in which my credentials for serving in the United States Senate so far exceed those of my opponent."

Incumbent Democratic Gov. John J. Gilligan went on the attack Tuesday, calling his opponent, former Gov. James A. Rhodes, "a candidate who crawls out of the bushes, lob a hand grenade and crawls back in the bushes again."

Gilligan said Rhodes is "hiding behind his mimeograph machine."

He said Rhodes has refused seven invitations to debate.

"There is no better way to present our views to the people than by face-to-face debate in a public forum," Gilligan said. "But Jim Rhodes is afraid to face me. Why?"

Rhodes said in Toledo that such debates just become shouting matches between supporters of the candidates. He also pressed his attack on Gilligan's spending and taxation policies.

Courts

CASE DISMISSED

The case of Dr. William E. Lawyer against the city of Washington C.H. has been dismissed in Common Pleas Court.

Judge Evelyn W. Coffman dismissed the case filed Aug. 2, 1973 concerning a sewage line, under agreements made with both attorneys. Otis R. Hess Jr. acted as attorney for the plaintiff, Dr. Lawyer, and James A. Kiger, served in the city's defense.

In dismissing the action, Judge Coffman ordered the city to replace sewer lines "from the inside of the plaintiff's property on E. Market Street and run a new sewer service therefrom connecting with the city sewer located east of the telephone company in an alley parallel with and between E. Market Street and E. Temple Street."

Class action postponed

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Blue Cross of Southwestern Ohio won a postponement until Nov. 1 in a class action suit alleging it illegally charged excessive premiums to build up a $50 million treasury.

The non-profit insurance group asked for more time to defend itself against the action filed by attorney Vernon R. Brose.

Brose filed suit on behalf of himself and similar policy holders in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court.

Brose asked the court to place the reserves in a trust and order the medical carrier to reduce rates while the reserves are dissipated.

Brose also asked the court to invalidate mergers between Blue Cross of Southwest Ohio and Blue Cross units in Lima and Canton. He said the merger was arranged to spread the reserves over a larger number of policy holders.

Peace prize share for Sato blasted

By GENE KRAMER
Associated Press Writer

Some Japanese political leaders have criticized former Prime Minister Eisaku Sato's receipt of a share of the 1974 Nobel Peace Prize. They contend he didn't deserve it because of his role in keeping U.S. military forces in Japan.

The selection of Sato and Sean MacBride of Ireland as cowinners of the award was announced Tuesday in Oslo, Norway. Citations said the selections were for Sato's efforts to limit nuclear weapons and stabilize conditions in Asia and MacBride's many years of work to protect human rights.

The Nobel Committee of the Norwegian parliament said the two would share the $124,000 award equally. Both men are expected to be in Oslo Dec. 10 to accept it.

"Sean MacBride's efforts for human rights and Eisaku Sato's work for limitation of nuclear weapons and for international conciliation contributed each in its own way to securing peace," the committee said. "Their efforts have come in areas that in our time are central to the work for peace."

Director Tim Greve of the Nobel Institute said about 50 candidates had been nominated for the 1974 prize. Candidates' names are never officially revealed.

It was the first time that a Japanese or an Irishman won the Peace Prize, although five Japanese and two Irishmen have received Nobel prizes in other categories. The award is named for the late Alfred Nobel, the Swedish inventor of dynamite, who donated the prize fund.

Sato, 73, was Japan's prime minister from 1964 to 1972. He said on learning in Tokyo of his choice that he knew he was being considered but had thought he would not win.

A Socialist party official quickly criticized the selection, declaring that Sato as prime minister "vehemently maintained" the U.S.-Japanese Security Pact "which, as a result, allows U.S. ships to bring nuclear weapons to Japan."

The prize was split last year between Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and North Vietnamese Politburo member Le Duc Tho for their Vietnam peace accord, which ended American involvement in the Vietnam war. That decision caused an uproar that resulted in the resignation of two of the five members of the Nobel Committee.

MacBride, 70, a former Irish independence fighter whose father was executed by the British, is now United Nations Commissioner for South-West Africa, or Namibia.

The Olympic games became a national Greek festival in 776 B.C.

Workmen's compensation reviewed for Rotarians

The operation of the Ohio Bureau of Workmen's Compensation was explained to members of the Washington C.H. Rotary Club at the regular weekly luncheon meeting Tuesday in the Country Club.

Gene Steele, of Columbus, assistant director of the claims department for the Ohio Bureau of Workmen's Compensation, explained that the bureau's primary purpose is to provide recovery for workers who are injured or become disabled during the course of their employment. He said the workmen's compensation laws also provide immunity to employers from any law suits filed by workers who are involved in on-the-job accidents.

WORKMEN'S compensation was established in Ohio in 1911, according to Steele, who pointed out that the bureau is actually operating one of the largest insurance companies in the world.

The bureau, Steele said receives approximately $200 million in premiums from employers per year and the bureau pays out a like amount. The bureau processes about 400,000 new claims each year, he said.

The workmen's compensation payments cover injuries, occupational diseases, and death benefits.

Steele stressed the over-the-years change in the amount of money the bureau pays to injured or disabled workers. He said when the bureau started the maximum payment was $12 per week, now the maximum payment is $112 per week.

New provisions in the workmen's compensation law, which became effective July 1, were reviewed by Steele.

He said now all employers with more than one worker must carry workmen's compensation; household employees, earning over $50 per quarter, are now required to be covered by the compensation, and sole proprietors of businesses can now obtain the benefits.

Steele later in the meeting fielded questions about the operation of the workmen's compensation program

DURING THE regular business meeting, conducted by club president Paul Crosby, Community Education program director Hank Shaffer expressed his gratitude to a number of Rotarians who participated in the Offsides benefit football game last weekend. About a dozen Rotarians played in the game, while numerous others sold tickets and others officiated.

Other guests were Jerry Sheppard with Bill Pool, Rodman Scott with David Ogan and Carl Lowery with Vern Haugen.

Visiting Rotarians were Jerry Ardrey, of London, Oattie Hockman, Art Dick and Dave Kohli, all of Mount Sterling, and Stan Butler, of Schenectady, N.Y. Student guests were Phil Skinner, of MTHS, and Jeff DaRuf, of WSHS.

Circle III

Mrs. Leonard Scott was hostess to Circle III of First Presbyterian Church, when Mrs. Ralph Jones, leader, opened the meeting by reading from Psalm 27. Mrs. Dorothy Donohoe read from the Yearbook of Prayer concerning missions in Pueblo, Colo., and Utah. The News Interpretation was given by Mrs. Scott, which consisted of excerpts from individual letters highlighting specific examples of the results of the mission work in the field.

It was announced that the district workshops will be Oct. 9 in South Salem and in Washington C.H. Oct. 10 from 7:30 until 9:30 p.m. with Mrs. Gerald Wheat, district chairman, as leader. The program for the coming year will be "Eight New Testament Persons Who Knew Jesus" from Neighborhood Bible Study.

The Bible Study was given by Mrs. Howard Perrill, who chose the Gospel of Mark as the basis for her remarks. Mark, by his continuous use of straightway, forthwith and immediate stresses how very much Jesus accomplished in the three years of his teaching. All the way through Mark's gospel, he emphasizes the importance of people rather than things.

The meeting was adjourned and refreshments were served by the hostess followed by a very enjoyable social hour.

Class theme is 'Love'

"Love" was the theme for devotions when the Golden Rule Class of the Bloomingburg United Methodist Church met in the church. Mr. Robert Huff read from John 3:16 and First Corinthians 13:13 and Mr. Robert Grim conducted the meeting.

It was reported that the class made a profit on the serving of lunch at the recent Andrews & Baughn hog sale, for which Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Bloomer were co-chairmen.

A bazaar is planned at the church Nov. 9 beginning at 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. A lunch will be served.

New semester courses set

By AUDREY SMITH

English courses at the high school this year for 11th and 12th graders are science fiction, mythology, speed reading, Bible literature, American literature, journalism, composition, short story, speech, the media, and a two semester course in English III for reading improvement.

All of these courses except the last are for one semester only. Every junior must select two courses, but only seniors in the college preparatory program are required to take English.

These courses are being taught on an experimental basis, so the school did not purchase textbooks. Most of the materials being used are collected and mimeographed.

Composition, speech, American literature, and English III have been taught before, but this is the first year for the other courses.

Mrs. Pat Gall, head of the English department, made this comment, "The English department is very pleased so far with the acceptance of this program, and we hope to be able to expand it in the coming years."

The 39,797 square foot K-Mart department store, located on Columbus Avenue across from Storybrook Addition, has been stocking its shelves with merchandise in preparation for the opening.

Approximately 35 local residents have been employed at the store with additional personnel to be hired part-time during holiday seasons. The employees are being trained by supervisory personnel in anticipation of the opening.

THE WASHINGTON C.H. K-Mart store is one of three sizes of the chain, which is owned and operated by the S.S.

Kresge Co., headquartered in Troy, Mich. The "Group Nine" store is the smallest in size but will carry most of the merchandise that the 100,000 square foot stores offer. Included in the various departments of the store will be appliances, clothing, hardware, sewing goods, jewelry, health and beauty aids and an automotive center.

The new manager brings with him 17 years of retail experience with the S.S. Kresge Co. and was formerly co-manager of a K-Mart store in Detroit, Mich.

According to the manager, the store will sell "quality merchandise at discount prices with the K-Mart unconditional satisfaction guarantee."

The local store will have parking facilities to accommodate 300 cars as an additional feature. Pavement has been added to Columbus Avenue to widen the roadway at the entrance to the store.

Developers Diversified, a shopping center development firm headquartered in the Cleveland suburb of Beechwood, constructed the building and leased it to the S.S. Kresge Co. on a long-term basis.

Hospital department heads eye cost containment study

Using a training program designed by the American Hospital Association, department heads at Fayette County Memorial Hospital are returning to the classroom to improve their skills and techniques on how to expand their services, yet hold down charges to patients.

"Although mandatory wage and price controls recently were lifted for the health industry, we will continue our effort to hold down the patient's hospital bill despite inflationary pressures from the outside," said R.L. Kunz, hospital Administrator. "Our management and supervisory personnel are involved in cost containment as part of their ongoing, day-to-day responsibilities. This training program will help all of us do a better job."

THE AHA program, instructed by Kunz, is aimed at department heads and supervisors to provide them with a better working knowledge of how their cost containment activities contribute to the overall financial condition of the hospital. Major emphasis in the training program is placed on step-by-step activities that department heads and supervisors can employ in their specific areas of responsibility in order to identify problems and opportunities, analyze alternative solutions and implement changes.

The training program first examines the recent history and current status of costs and cost trends in the health care industry and then explores the components of hospital costs and the reasons for upward cost trends in terms of technical, economic and social pressures. Also explored are the many forces exerted through legislation and consumer groups to contain and, if possible, turn back the tide of rising costs.

Common techniques of hospital cost control are reviewed, with emphasis on the distinction between how these techniques usually are used and how they should be used for maximum benefit.

The course emphasizes a technique known as "operations management" and deals with its role, characteristics, methodology, and benefits as a tool in the identification, analysis and implementation of cost control opportunities.

BECAUSE the success of the training program depends largely on involvement of the participants, actual hospital cost containment situations are analyzed and evaluated for subsequent discussion. The course, also, is designed to allow the instructor at the hospital to include specific data from his hospital's costs.

The self-administered workshop consists of five weekly two-hour sessions. A lecture and slide presentation will be a part of each session, with class discussion an important component. The last three sessions will be focused on certain case study assignments which will be completed outside of class and discussed at the seminar sessions.

Ocasek eyes challenge to Calabrese

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Democratic leaders in both legislative chambers may be challenged for their posts late this year—not just House Speaker A.G. Lancione, D—99 Bellaire.

Sen. Oliver Ocasek, D—27 Akron, presently the assistant minority leader in the upper chamber, said Tuesday he is considering running for the top job currently held by Anthony O. Calabrese, D—22 Cleveland.

If he does, he would join Speaker Pro Tem Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D—89 New Boston, as a second-in-command with an eye toward bigger things when Democrats caucus after the Nov. 5 election.

Riffe said late last month he intends to challenge Lancione for the speaker's chair.

Hopes of both challengers apparently depend on whether Democrats retain control of the House in November and take away from Republicans their present 17-16 edge in the Senate.

Ocasek won't run, he said, if Democrats do not win the Senate. "There wouldn't be any need for a tussle if that were the case," said the 44-year-old University of Akron professor.

Clear skies favor nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Showers dissipated over Western and Southwestern states today, leaving weather conditions across most of the nation fair and mild.

Scattered showers dampened parts of Nevada, Utah and New Mexico. Nearly half an inch of rain fell Tuesday evening at Concord, Calif.

A band of thunderstorms across southern Florida also weakened.

Skies remained overcast across the Great Lakes region, northern Ohio Valley and parts of the Northeast, and rain and drizzle fell in Upper Michigan.

Ground fog developed in the Pacific Northwest and in sections of central Oklahoma and eastern Kansas.

Skies over the rest of the nation were mostly clear.

Below-normal temperatures persisted in the Northeast, where many overnight readings fell into the 30s.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 26 at Houlton, Maine, to 82 at Blythe, Calif.

Airplane stolen at Lunken airport

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—A $32,000 airplane stolen from Lunken Airport sometime late Monday or early Tuesday had a range of 720-1,100 miles and a full load of gasoline.

Roger Van Pelt, general manager of Key Aviation Inc., said the thieves apparently "hot wired" the ignition. The keys remained in the office vault when the plane was discovered missing Tuesday.

The Piper Cherokee Six was leased by Key from Cincinnati Air Transportation Inc.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — First, the good news: "Monty Python's Flying Circus," a hit British comedy series, will be set loose in the U.S. this month. Now, the bad news: Only 18 public TV stations are carrying it initially.

But Time-Life Films, Inc., which is distributing the BBC-produced program, says it hopes to sell the 13-week series to additional stations across the U.S. in coming weeks.

American viewers got a brief look at the Python emporium this year on NBC's "Midnight Special" show and "Dean Martin's Comedyworld" summer series.

But for those who missed it, I guess the only way to characterize the show is to say it defies logic, dashes through various skits more briskly than a speeding locomotive and combines live action with brilliant, bizarre montage animation.

The first show, which opened last night on WNET-TV here and will start on most of the other Python stations this week, was a mind-bender extraordinary.

For example, it had a skit entitled: "How to recognize trees from quite a long way away." Then it showed a tree called a larch. Then, as part of the course, it went into a courtroom to cover the trial of a man named Larch, charged with a parking offense.

The prosecutor said: "I now call the late Arthur Aldridge."

"Is there any relevance in questioning the deceased?" inquired the judge as a coffin was brought in and put on the witness stand.

The witness, the prosecutor explained, "is virtually dead, m'lord. He's not completely dead, but he's not at all well." He also noted the witness answers questions by knocking on the side of the coffin.

Peddling preachers in trouble with agency

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Rev. Sun Myung Moon and his fervent disciples are swooping across the country with a brand of Christianity embracing politics and peddling.

To their dismay, they've swooped straight into the hands of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, which thinks the Rev. Moon's Unification Church may be teaching its young foreign trainees more about peddling than preaching.

The Immigration Service has threatened to deport 61 of the foreign trainees who failed to leave the country after their visitor's visas expired. About 500 more face similar treatment.

"I am again and again embarrassed in front of them that our country in effect is saying, 'We don't want you,'" said Neil A. Salonen, president of the church's American branch.

While the government moves toward judgment, the church is proceeding with heavily advertised "day of hope" rallies scheduled in six cities before Christmas.

In Washington, site of the Oct. 16 appearance, thousands of handbills bearing the Korean preacher's sedate visage are blooming from sidewalk trash cans, vacant store windows and the fences along construction projects.

The blitz then moves to Atlanta,

Chicago, Seattle, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Published and broadcast advertising for such rallies consumes much of the U.S. church's multimillion-dollar annual budget.

Salonen said 90 per cent of the $7 million raised last year came from the fund-raising activities such as those questioned by the Immigration Service.

The converts, most of them youthful, are dispatched to peddle peanuts, flowers, candles and other small items door-to-door or from small sidewalk stands.

Trainees peddle "only as part of a much larger program of evangelism," lecturing, Bible and other religious study, prayer, workshops and many other activities," Salonen said.

But the immigration service saw it differently.

Blue halts Orioles on two hits

By GORDON BEARD
AP Sports Writer
BALTIMORE (AP) — The Oakland Athletics are on the verge of winning a third straight American League pennant, even without a major internal squabble. But, as usual, tempers are a bit frayed.

And — as the A's beat Baltimore 1-0 Tuesday on Sal Bando's home run and Vida Blue's two-hit pitching — they also got on the Orioles' nerves with their talent and showboating. The second consecutive shutout, extending Baltimore's nonscoring string to 22 innings, gave the A's a 2-1 lead in the best-of-five championship series between the division leaders. Jim "Catfish" Hunter, Oakland's 25-game winner who lost the series opener to end his personal seven-game streak against the Orioles, was given the assignment of trying to wrap up the playoffs for the A's in today's game. Mike Cuellar, a 22-game winner who beat Hunter in the first game, was picked to start for Baltimore provided he can shake off arm stiffness which bothered him Tuesday. Ross Grimsley, an 18-game winner, is on standby. "It's no fun being down 2-1," said

Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver, whose Orioles rallied from a similar deficit last year before dropping the deciding fifth game. Oakland then went on to win its second straight seven-game World Series. The A's seem to have the knack of doing what's necessary to win, and that was underscored by Blue and Bando in game No. 3. Blue, who had failed to win in post-season play while losing two playoff games and two World Series decisions, broke through the barrier with seven strikeouts and no walks. He didn't allow a base runner past first. "Vida threw the best game of his career," said Bando, who homered on a 3-2 fast ball from Jim Palmer in the fourth inning, "because it was the pressure of a playoff game."

The homer was the second in two games for Bando, who didn't hit any of his 22 regular season homers off Baltimore pitching. Blue, who won the league's Cy Young pitching award in 1971, hooked up in a classic mound duel with Palmer, last year's Cy Young winner. Palmer, with a 7-1 record in postseason play, allowed just four hits.

And, it was Palmer who accused Oakland slugger Reggie Jackson of "making a farce out of the game" with his home plate gyrations in the ninth inning. Jackson, playing as Oakland's designated hitter because of aching leg muscles, then added to Palmer's frustrations. He reached first on a single through the box which Palmer called a "routine grounder."

The Baltimore right-hander said the home run pitch came as he tried to throw a strike and avoid starting a possible big inning by issuing a walk.

Casanova says Bengals having fun

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — "If we didn't have so much fun out there, we wouldn't be nearly as effective," said Cincinnati Bengals safety Tommy Casanova.

"It's about time people started recognizing we have a good kick return team." Casanova, in this third year as a pro out of Louisiana State University, drew high praise from Washington Redskins Coach George Allen after the special teams gave Cincinnati a 28-17 victory. Lemar Parrish scored twice, once on a 95-yard kickoff return and the other a 40-yard run with a fumble recovery. After that, the Redskins were kicking away from Parrish, and Casanova made a 38-yard return setting up the Bengals third touchdown.

"We ran it to the right because they always kick to the right," said Casanova, remembering films of previous game films. "It was my week to get in a few licks. I've been taking them for the last couple of games."

Casanova was credited with six tackles, one assist and two pass blocks. But more important, he shut off a Redskins touchdown drive by Billy Kilmer early in the third quarter by sacking Kilmer on a safety blitz.

Griffin nears rushing mark

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Archie Griffin of Ohio State, the National Back of the Week, is surprised he's only two games away from one of college football's treasured records.

The squirming junior tailback has piled up 15 straight games of 100 or more rushing yards. The record is 17 games in a row, set four years ago by Oklahoma's Steve Owens.

"I wasn't even aware of it," Griffin said of Owens' record. "If I could get that, it would be a great honor. I thought Owens was a great runner," added the 5-foot-9, 180-pound Griffin.

His latest gem, 196 yards in a 42-7 romp Saturday over Washington State, earned him The Associated Press weekly honors.

The chief weapon for top-ranked Ohio State has 619 yards in four games this season. He had 867 as a freshman and a Big Ten record 1,577 as a sophomore.

Errors costly to LA

By RON ROACH
AP Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Willie Stargell took a backwards look and could remember another year when the Pittsburgh Pirates had an uphill climb to victory. "In 1971 in Baltimore, we were supposed to be finished. The newspapers were calling it the St. Valentine's Day Massacre," the Pirates' slugger said of that World Series in which Pittsburgh lost the first two games, then came back to win it all in seven games. But no team in the five-year history of divisional playoffs has lost the first two games, then won three in a row to qualify for the World Series. "We can't concern ourselves with what's written and said," said Stargell, who hammered a three-run, first-inning homer as Pittsburgh stayed alive with a 7-0 triumph over the Los Angeles Dodgers Tuesday. No team has ever come back from an 0-2 deficit in playoffs, but neither had any club committed five errors in a playoff game, until the Dodgers did it Tuesday. The Dodgers' inept fielding came before a record home crowd of 55,953, and many of them were exiting for the already crowded freeways before the seventh-inning stretch. "That may have been the worst we looked all season," said Dodger Manager Walt Alton. "I doubt errors become contagious, but if they do I hope the Pirates catch it." Instead of unpacking the champagne to celebrate their first NL pennant in eight years, the Dodgers were forced into a fourth game. Don Sutton, who won Saturday's playoff opener, 3-0, was named to pitch today against the first-game loser, Jerry Reuss. Alton said he would go with Andy Messersmith, the winning pitcher Sunday, if the series requires a fifth game Thursday. Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh said Jim Rooker would be his pitcher if the series goes the limit. The Pirates blasted Doug Rau for five first-inning runs on the homer by Stargell and a two-run shot by Rich Hebner, and it was a 1971 World Series hero, Bruce Kison, who supplied the effective pitching. Kison, although only 9-8 in the regular season, continued his amazing post-season record. The lanky right-hander handcuffed the Dodgers on two singles, both by Bill Russell, for 6 2-3 innings, when he tired and was relieved by Ramon Hernandez. The Pirates broke out of a slump with 10 hits, including a double and two home runs, after getting a total of only 12 singles in the first two games. "I thought Doug Rau's stuff was all right," said Alton of his starting pitcher who lasted through seven batters in the first inning. "They had only two runs in two games and were pretty likely to break loose against somebody, no matter who the pitcher was."

Ex-Michigan escapee on probation

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—James LeBoeuf, 31, who gained notoriety in 1972 when Ohio refused to extradite him to Michigan for prison escape, is free on probation following a conviction for receiving stolen credit cards.

LeBoeuf was placed on three years probation Tuesday by Hamilton County Common Pleas Court Judge Gilbert Bettman.

He was charged after juveniles told police they stole credit cards to sell to LeBoeuf.

LeBoeuf has admitted running away from a northern Michigan prison camp in 1964. He came to Cincinnati, married, fathered a daughter and worked as a printer.

He was heavily involved in Boy Scout and Big Brother projects when arrested in 1972.

LeBoeuf's name was run through a national computer check by police routinely after he went to aid a policeman, thinking the officer was ill in his cruiser. The policeman, however, was involved in a burglary stakeout at the time.

Dozens of community leaders appeared at LeBoeuf's extradition hearing and testified of his high standing in the area. The court denied extradition. Michigan prison authorities then placed him on parole in Cincinnati which was completed in 1973.

LeBoeuf was arrested last June and tried in August on the credit card case. He claimed he was framed and said the prosecution unfairly tagged him as a "Fagin," teaching youths to steal.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Girls and Contact Sports

Do you believe that girls in grade school and high school should be allowed to participate on an equal level with boys in all sports?

Our daughter insists on it and wants us to pursue it in her school. We feel that she's asking for injury.

Mr. and Mrs. R.C.S., Tex. Dear Mr. and Mrs. S.:

There are two obvious aspects to the question. The first, of course, refers to the right of a girl to play in contact and non-contact sports with boys.

In my opinion, there should not be any differentiation of the basic rights of any individual of any sex to freely engage in the sport of his or her choice.

The second aspect of the question is the reality that girls are not usually as hardy, as heavy, as muscular or as tall as boys of the same age.

The body weight, the bone density and the muscle mass is less than that of boys. It would therefore seem to be unwise and even hazardous for the more fragile girls to engage in contact sports like football, soccer, ice hockey basketball and lacrosse along with their harder, heavier male classmates.

I do believe that talented girls can and should compete on all levels in non-contact sports such as baseball, tennis, swimming, gymnastics, track, ice skating and skiing.

And contact sports created specifically for girls can be exhilarating and at the same time be free of potential danger.

Liberation and independence are excellent ideas, but they should not make the liberated one pay too heavy a penalty.

Do you know anything about a ring device that eliminates the tars and nicotine from cigarettes?

My husband uses it and says that now he can smoke as much as he wants, against his doctor's advice.

Mrs. M.N., Mo.

Dear Mrs. N.:

The so-called "smoke ring" gadget has been highly touted by those who manufacture it as the final, safe method of smoking.

When a cigarette is put through the ring it is slightly compressed, and causes air space between the tobacco and the cigarette paper. This is said to reduce the harmful tars.

Dr. Gio Gori, Scientific Director of the National Cancer Institute, reports, "Preliminary testing of the smoke ring has produced no evidence to support the health claims made by the manufacturer."

In the light of this finding, your husband should return to his doctor's instructions and give up both the ring and the cigarettes.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has prepared a special booklet entitled "What to Do About Ulcers." For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. Trash dumping complaint triggers theft arrests

Two 14-year-old area boys have been charged by the Washington C.H. Police Department with operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent. The boys allegedly stole a car owned by Danny Brinkley, Washington Hotel, which had been parked at the Washington C.H. Eagles Lodge, 320 Sycamore St., between 3:30 p.m. and 4:45 p.m. Tuesday, with the window rolled down and the keys in the ignition.

Two hit-skip mishaps probed

A hit-skip accident which occurred in the city is currently under investigation by the Washington C.H. Police Department, while a hit-skip accident which occurred in the county is under investigation by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department. Washington C.H. police also reported an additional Tuesday accident, at the Clark service station.

A car owned by Gladys S. Glover, 726 Broadway St., was damaged in the front rear fender by a hit-skip driver, while it was parked at the rear of 526 N. North St.

Police, who are matching paint chips from the unidentified vehicle, stated the moderate damage was discovered at 5 p.m. Tuesday.

A car driven by Loren J. Bennett, 75, of 327 N. Main St., struck a parked auto belonging to Stephen A. Wilson, 34, Greenfield, in the Clark service station lot, W. Court Street, at 7:54 p.m. Tuesday.

Police reported Bennet's vision through his back window was obscured while he was backing up.

Two strands of lights were torn down at Laymon Motor Sales, CCC-Highway-W, sometime between 1:30 p.m. and 2 p.m. Friday, the Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported. Sheriff's deputies are investigating the hit-skip, which was caused by a vehicle approximately 10 feet tall.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department received a trash dumping complaint which was related to the auto theft, when the boys stopped the car in front of the Roger Thompson residence on Miami Trace Road, two miles east of Ohio 41-S, and decided to see what was in the trunk. As they were looking, they discarded what they found, an old tire, a box of empty pop bottles, a cooler, and some plastic containers. When the youths saw Thompson coming, they got back in the vehicle and drove off, leaving the items behind in the roadside ditch.

The car was observed by Auxiliary Sheriff's Deputy John Boylan in the vicinity of Snowhill Road, three-tenths of a mile northeast of Bunker Hill Road, while he was off-duty. The boys stopped the auto and fled to a nearby cornfield to hide. Auxiliary Deputy L.O. Marvin came on the scene and took the juveniles into custody at 9:10 p.m. Tuesday. Both have been released to their parents.

Two workers charged in shotgun theft

A Washington C. H. man and a Columbus man, who were working on the electrical construction at the new K-Mart store on Columbus Avenue, were arrested and charged by Washington C.H. police officers for allegedly stealing two 12-gauge shotguns valued at $142 apiece.

The men, Charles O. Varney, 36, of 331 Rose Ave., and Robert M. Varney, 25, Columbus, have been charged with grand theft.

The incident occurred at 11:25 a.m. Tuesday, while the two men were completing electrical wiring work in the K-Mart stock room. Both are presently free on $2,500 bond each.

Traffic Court

A Washington C.H. man was fined $200 with his operator's license suspended for 30 days on a charge of driving while intoxicated Tuesday in Municipal Court.

Acting Judge John P. Case issued the fine to Freddie L. Howe, 22, of 410 East St., after he pleaded guilty to the charge. Twenty-seven days of a 30-day jail sentence were suspended pending one year good conduct.

James D. Haightcock Jr., 19, of 1028 John St., pleaded no contest to a charge of permitting an unlicensed driver to operate a motor vehicle. He was fined $50.

Michael L. Young, 20, Rt. 2, Washington C.H., was fined $50 after pleading guilty to a charge of making excessive noise with a motor vehicle. A 10-day jail sentence was suspended pending one year good conduct.

J. Herbert Perrill, 65, Rt. 2, Washington C.H., was fined $25 after pleading guilty to a charge of striking a legally parked vehicle.

Those forfeiting bonds Tuesday: Carl W. Howes, 27, Canal Winchester, $18, failure to obey a traffic signal; Pardon F. Mason Jr., 32, Mt. Sterling, $25, failure to yield from stop sign; Robert L. Crabtree, 40, New Boston, $35, expired operator's license; and Charles H. Buck, 36, of 2391 Rowe-Ging Road, Washington C.H., $35, expired operator's license.

Kissinger opens trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — On his sixth mediating trip to the Middle East since the October war, Henry A. Kissinger will test Arab and Israeli enthusiasm for another Sinai withdrawal while searching for a way to link it with an over-all peace settlement.

His journey comes amid increasing tensions between the Arabs and the United States because of disagreements over oil prices.

The fast-stepping secretary of state, who set out after midnight from Andrews Air Force Base, plans to visit seven countries within a week, possibly doubling back to Cairo before leaving the Middle East for a final check with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

President Ford and members of his Cabinet drove to Andrews to see Kissinger off on what Ford called "a vitally important mission."

U.S. officials said the trip is unlikely to produce the detailed terms even of the next stage.

Small boy reports sawdust pit fire

A small boy reported a fire at the sawdust pit behind the Washington C.H. Eagles Lodge, 320 Sycamore St., at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Washington C.H. firemen didn't have the lad's name, but were thankful for his observation. They extinguished the flames with water and were on the scene 15 minutes.

Judge dismisses overloaded truck case in Muny Court

Acting Judge John P. Case dismissed a case Tuesday charging a Washington C.H. truck driver with operating an overloaded truck after the arresting patrolman had not sworn to the affidavit.

The jury trial for John C. Sullivan, of 914 E. Market St., was dismissed after the prosecution's first witness, the arresting patrolman, testified he had not sworn to the affidavit.

According to Judge Case, the error did not lie with Highway Patrolman Gary Brackney but with the Ohio highway Patrol for retaining a policy which did not include being present at the affidavit swearing before the court clerk or notary public.

Sullivan, who had pleaded innocent to the charge, was being defended by two Hamilton attorneys while city prosecutor Gary Smith acted as attorney for the state.

The eight jurors seated were informed of the action contrary to law by Judge Case before issuing the motion for dismissal.

Members of the jury were Mrs. Joanne Thornhill, Oren Crace, Robert Pope, Mrs. Mary Wilt, Harold W. Fenton, Mrs. Betty Robinson, Mrs. Peggy Self and Ms. Jeanette Roush.

4 non-traffic hearings held

Four persons were fined following non-traffic hearings Tuesday in Municipal Court. Acting Judge John P. Case presided.

Dewey Jester, 25, of 622 S. North St., was fined $25 on a charge of criminal mischief. The charge had been filed on a private warrant.

George Dumford, 61, of Chillicothe, was fined $30 after pleading no contest to a charge of disorderly conduct by intoxication.

Robert E. Penwell, 49, of 734 John St., was fined $25 on a charge of disorderly conduct.

A $15 fine was levied against Larry Johnson, 27, of 607 Campbell St. Johnson had been charged on a private warrant for making menacing threats.

Officers probe two larcenies

Washington C.H. police officers and Fayette County Sheriff's deputies each had a larceny to report today.

Forty dollars was removed from a desk drawer at the Wildwood Harness Shop, 688 Wildwood Rd., sometime between 8 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Oct. 2, the Sheriff's Department reported today. An investigation is currently in progress.

While Richard Humphrey, 819 S. North St., was participating in his physical education class at Washington Senior High School, from 9 until 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, someone was inside the locker room lifting his wallet, which he had left in his pants pocket. The wallet contained $7, his driver's license and other miscellaneous papers. Police are investigating the theft.

More taxes, less energy pushed

Ford challenges Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has challenged Congress and the public to accept higher taxes and less energy as part of an anti-inflation program that also includes jobs for the unemployed and stepped-up production to halt food price increases.

Congress is showing itself willing to cooperate up to a point.

Comments by many lawmakers indicated that the point at which many of them would balk is enactment of a 5 per cent surcharge on the tax levied on incomes above $15,000 for a family and $7,500 for a single person.

"I am aware that any proposal for new taxes just four weeks before a national election is — to put it mildly — considered politically unwise ..." Ford said Tuesday at a nationally televised and broadcast joint session of the House and Senate.

"But I do say in all sincerity I will not play politics with America's future ... This is the acid test of our joint determination to whip inflation."

Appealing over the heads of the lawmakers in the floodlit House chamber, he asked his nationwide audience to "grow more, waste less ... drive less, heat less ... share with others."

Congressional leaders moved fast on two measures Ford targeted for immediate action: a resolution to hold spending at $300 billion, $5 billion under earlier estimates, and legislation he said would clear the way for the government to pour $3 billion into the ailing home market, enough for 100,000 homes, by buying conventional as well as government-insured mortgages.

Leaders conferred on ways to cut procedural corners and send these two measures to Ford by Friday, the day Congress is scheduled to begin a month's campaigning recess. Some said they would consider postponing the recess, but plans were being made to avoid a postponement.

Ford's longer-term program ranged over the issues of taxes, food production, employment, energy, capital building and price-raising practices both of the government and the private sector.

The proposed surcharge would apply to corporate income and to private incomes above the specified levels. An individual taxpayer would compute his tax in the usual way, then add 5 per cent to the tax on that part of his income above the specified levels — $7,500 for a single person and $15,000 for a couple.

The surcharge would be in effect for a year only and Ford said, "I would not ask this if major loopholes were not being closed by the Ways and Means Tax Reform Bill."

Some congressmen said the personal income surcharge had no chance, others that increasing public concern on inflation might put it over, and many that it could be enacted if the income floor were raised to $20,000, $25,000 or some higher figure.

He said the tax measures he is seeking would raise an estimated $5 billion, which "should pay for all the new programs I have recommended in this message."

Saying that low-and middle income Americans have been hard hit by inflation, Ford added, "The tax reform bill now in the House Committee on Ways and Means, which I favor, already provides approximately $1.6 billion of tax relief to these groups."

Principal provisions of the committee bill that favor low and middle income taxpayers relate to standard deductions used by those who do not itemize on their tax returns.

At present, a taxpayer may take a standard deduction of 15 per cent of income up to a top deduction of $2,000. The bill would increase the percentage to 17 and the ceiling to $2,500.

To help low income taxpayers, there is in present law also a provision for a flat deduction of $1,300 anyone may take, regardless of what percentage of income this is. The bill would raise the deduction to $1,400 for single taxpayers and $1,500 for couples.

"To halt higher food prices, we must produce more food," Ford said. He asked Congress to remove acreage limitations on rice, peanuts and cotton and said he would allocate to farmers all the fuel and seek authority to allocate all the fertilizer they need.

Fire Prevention Week being observed

"Prometheus with the aid of Minerva, went up to heaven, and lighted his torch at the chariot of the sun, and brought down fire to man. With this gift, man was more than a match for all other animals. It enabled him to make weapons wherewith to subdue them; tools with which to cultivate the earth; to warm his dwelling, so as to be comparatively independent of climate; and finally to introduce the arts and to coin money, the means of trade and commerce."

This is Thomas Bulfinch's explanation of how the Greeks believed man received fire, in his book, "Bulfinch's Mythology."

Whether the god Prometheus was responsible for giving man fire or whether early man learned how to master this useful tool by observing lightning which had struck trees and ignited them, does not matter; the point is fire is here to stay and although life without it would probably cease to exist, life with it is often taken away by it. This is "National Fire Prevention Week" and a good time to remember the do's and don'ts of fire prevention.

Almost 100 years ago today, 250 persons were killed and 17,430 buildings valued at $168 million, were destroyed in the "Great Chicago Fire of 1871." The anniversary of this disaster officially created "National Fire

JUST IN CASE — Pupils from Belle Aire Elementary School had a pleasant day for a fire drill. It was nice to leave the ol' desk and walk into the sunshine for a couple minutes, but on a deeper level of analysis; if there had been an actual fire, the kids probably would have been saved. They filed out of the building in an orderly fashion, without talking, and did just what they had been taught to do. It took 45 seconds to clear the school and assistant fire chief John Rockhold (in background, middle of photo), who was timing the drill, commented "that was pretty good!" The Washington C.H. Fire Department is scheduling fire drills at all city schools, along with fire prevention lectures and fire extinguisher demonstrations, in observance of "National Fire Prevention Week," Oct. 6-12.

Tax surcharge plan under fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressmen have indicated little support for President Ford's call on middle-income families to foot most of the bill for the fight against inflation.

Although there was general praise for other Ford initiatives for relieving the depressed housing industry and spurring business investment, many Democrats and some Republicans were critical of the President's proposed 5 per cent surtax on family incomes above $15,000.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott suggested the surtax take effect above the $20,000 level; Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York suggested $25,000. House Speaker Carl Albert urged a staggered surtax; Sen. Paul Fannin, R-Ariz., ruled out the tax entirely until every effort is made to cut federal spending.

In an address to a joint session of Congress Tuesday, Ford outlined the inflation-fighting proposals that he said will require sacrifice by all Americans.

At the center of what the President called his grand design was the suggested 5 per cent levy on taxes paid on family incomes above $15,000 a year, on individual incomes above $7,500, and on corporations.

The special tax on individuals would bring in an estimated $2.6 billion of the $4.7 billion necessary to pay for public-service jobs when the national unemployment rate exceeds 6 per cent and for other anti-inflation programs.

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., and

Sen. William Brock, R-Tenn., pledged support for the surtax.

Other congressmen said they cannot justify further taxation of middle-income families until loopholes that allow the wealthy and the major oil companies to avoid their fair share of taxes are closed.

Business leaders applauded Ford's proposals. "We congratulate the President on his broad program to win the fight against inflation," said

Richard C. Gerstenberg, board chairman of General Motors Corp.

Henry Ford II of the Ford Motor Co. said, "The President's program appears to me to be a comprehensive start in a unified attack on the most serious problem facing the United States and all the nations of the world right now."

"It sounds like a vigorous, well thought out program," said Donald T. Regan, chairman of Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc., the nation's largest brokerage house.

Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., called the tax proposal "outrageous." Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., termed it a "ripoff." House Democratic Leader Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., viewed it as "extremely unfair."

There was little indication that Congress would attempt to push through many of the Ford proposals before the month-long pre-election recess due to begin Friday. But Speaker Albert said he would favor delaying that recess if doing so would result in quick action on the Ford program.

Republican U.S. Sen. Robert Taft Jr., Ohio's senior senator, called President Ford's proposed tax surcharge bitter but necessary medicine on Tuesday night. Those were about the kindest words from Ohio politicians.

Taft said Ford showed "great courage and candor in telling us the castor oil and the tonics needed to cure the inflationary disease."

"The bitterness of the added 5 per cent tax burden will be hard for some to swallow," Taft said, "but I agree it is needed and equitable."

But other political leaders rejected the proposals.

"The President's surtax is ill-conceived, and the prospects for its passage are not good," said Rep. Charles A. Vanik, a Democrat. "It

Big New York bank fails

NEW YORK (AP) — The biggest bank failure in the nation's history doesn't mean other collapses are looming elsewhere in the industry, federal officials say.

New York's Franklin National Bank, once the nation's 20th largest commercial bank, was declared insolvent by the Treasury Department Tuesday. Most of its operations were sold to a company owned by six of Europe's biggest banks.

"It would be a mistake to view this incident as one generally shared by the banking industry," said Frank Wille, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., which was named as receiver for Franklin.

"Franklin's problems were rooted in earnings problems over the years which were exacerbated and exaggerated by foreign exchange losses in May," Wille said.

European-American Bank & Trust Co. paid a purchase premium of $125 million for $1.7 billion of Franklin National's assets. The purchase included Franklin's branch offices, deposits and offsetting liabilities. The FDIC promised European-American a $150 million loan to meet federal deposit requirements, and the foreign-owned company said it planned to draw on $100 million of the loan for now.

Franklin's trust operations were turned over to Bradford Trust Co. of New York, which the New York State Banking Department said had already been handling some of the department's operations on a contract basis.

The FDIC itself took over $2.08 billion in Franklin assets which had served as collateral for $1.7 billion in loans made to the bank by the Federal Reserve System in what was described at the time as the biggest rescue operation ever mounted by the nation's central banking system. The FDIC planned to liquidate the assets over three years to repay the Federal Reserve.

Terrorists ready to free hostages

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The American ambassador says six leftist terrorists have agreed to release the hostages they have held for 12 days in the Venezuelan consulate in exchange for safe conduct out of the Dominican Republic.

"We are now negotiating final details and we cannot say how long this will take," Ambassador Robert Hurwitt told newsmen Tuesday evening.

Hurwitt said he did not know where the terrorists would choose to fly or what country would agree to receive them. There was speculation they would fly to Mexico, Peru or Algeria.

The announcement came less than 24 hours after Dominican President Joaquin Balaguer made a "final, definitive and irrevocable" offer to guarantee the safe passage of the terrorists if they release the seven hostages. Until then, the government had refused to negotiate and demanded the unconditional surrender of the gunmen.

On Sept. 27, the terrorists kidnapped Barbara A. Hutchison, 47, the head of the U.S. Information Service here, and took her from outside her office to the consulate. There they captured two Venezuelan consuls, two office workers, a Spanish priest and a Dominican messenger and holed up with the group on the second floor.

The original demands included $1 million in cash and the release of 37 political prisoners, but the cash demand was dropped and the prisoner list reduced last week. In the end, the terrorists apparently abandoned all their demands except for safe conduct.

Hurwitt talked to newsmen after he, the Spanish ambassador and the Venezuelan charge d'affaires conferred with national police chief Gen. Rafael Guzman Acosta and rebel chief Radhames Mendez Vargas.

The American ambassador said, "I talked to Barbara Hutchison about 10 minutes ago (by telephone) and she was, of course, very happy about the situation." He called her "an exemplary official who has been just great."

Mendez, 32, the leader of the terrorists, claims membership in the "Jan. 12 Movement," a small, pro-Communist guerrilla group. Six months before the siege Mendez was released from jail after serving four years for hijacking an airliner.

Want WIN pin? Write Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) "Dear President Ford:

"I enlist as an Inflation Fighter and Energy Saver for the duration. I will do the very best I can for America."

Print your name, address and zip code. Send it to the President. He will send you a button, free.

The button will say WIN. In white capital letters on red.

President Ford, in his economic address to Congress Tuesday, called it the symbol of a new mobilization.

A modern-day V-for-Victory, the galvanizing Churchillian gesture of World War II vintage. An economic "Remember the Maine," which whipped up enthusiasm for the Spanish-American War.

Alas, the President failed to say what WIN means.

In showing the button, Ford said only: "It bears the single word WIN. That tells it all."

Not quite.

You have to look through the speech to find the phrase, "Whip Inflation Now." It appears twice.

A White House spokesman said speechwriters slipped up by not having Ford explain that WIN referred to that phrase. But the button offer, nonetheless, is genuine. The address is the White House, Washington, D.C. 20500.

The President told the joint session he will elaborate next week on the volunteer Inflation Fighters and Energy Savers program, which he said will be manned by 18 distinguished people.

"There will be no big new federal bureaucracy set up for this crash program," he said. The volunteers will come from the communications media.

The American Newspaper Publishers Association took up the call and urged all newspapers to publish the enlistment coupon.

Improved auto mileage could become mandatory

WASHINGTON (AP) — If President Ford gets his way, automobiles will carry their passengers an average of five miles farther on a gallon of gasoline in 1978 than they do now.

Outlining energy policies Tuesday in a wide-ranging economic address to Congress, the President said he will personally meet with auto industry top management to seek a 40 per cent improvement in gasoline mileage within four years.

That pledge elevates the administration's effort from the agency level — Federal Energy Administrator John C. Sawhill has been after the auto makers since last summer — to the presidential level.

And Ford added that he would go after the mileage improvement "either by agreement or by law," a warning that he might seek something like a horsepower tax or a mandatory fuel-economy standard for automobiles if auto makers don't cooperate voluntarily.

Automobiles in the United States now deliver an average of around 13 miles per gallon; Ford's goal would raise the average to about 18 miles per gallon, probably through a combination of new engine designs and a higher proportion of small cars.

The President made no estimate as to the savings in gasoline which might accrue from increased mileage.

Ford's energy policies endorsed Sawhill's insistence on a campaign to save fuel, but Ford discarded proposals to slap new taxes or surcharges on gasoline, electricity and natural gas, relying instead on appeals for voluntary energy conservation.

However, he did propose a requirement that steam-electric power plants be run on coal or nuclear energy, instead of oil or natural gas.

If adopted, this would rule out further construction of large oil or gas-powered plants and would require many already in existence to switch to coal.

Ford said his aim was to eliminate basic oil and gas-fired electric generation by 1980.

Ford said he would resubmit amendments to the Clean Air Act on which Congress previously failed to act.

Ford also announced orders to reorganize federal energy efforts, with the creation of a new National Energy Board.

He named Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton as "the over-all boss of our national energy program," transferring that power from Treasury Secretary William E. Simon.

Coffee Break...

THE LAST of three training sessions being conducted by the Fayette County Board of Elections for all election precinct workers will be held at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the Washington Senior High School cafeteria.

Mrs. Margaret Langen, deputy director of the Fayette County Board of Elections, said all precinct officials who plan to work at the polls during the November 5 general election are required to attend one of the training sessions, in which the entire voting process and recent changes in the election laws are reviewed.

MEMBERS of the Washington Senior High School American Field Service chapter received a warm response to the adult membership drive held Tuesday night in Washington C.H. The students collected over $300, which will be used in bringing next year's AFS student to the community.

Mrs. Karen French, AFS chapter advisor, said any person who was not contacted in the Community canvass may call WSHS (335-1970). Memberships are priced at $1 per person.

Price-fixing crackdown given push

WASHINGTON (AP) — Butchers, bakers and zippermakers already are feeling heat from the Ford administration's campaign against price-fixing. Future targets may face tougher treatment and million-dollar fines.

President Ford gave the attack fresh impetus Tuesday when he promised stern enforcement of antitrust laws and asked Congress for harsh penalties for violators.

No President since Harry S. Truman has taken such a strong public stand against illegal corporate conspiracies, said government antitrust lawyers.

The administration attack is designed to end business practices which diminish competition and force prices up for the consumer.

Assistant Atty. Gen. Thomas E. Kauper, head of the Justice Department's antitrust division, has estimated that such practices cost Americans as much as $80 million a year.

"I am determined to return to the vigorous enforcement of antitrust laws," Ford said as he sent Congress proposed legislation raising the maximum fine for antitrust violators from $50,000 to $1 million for corporations and $100,000 for individuals.

With his statement, Ford took up an attack which has been gaining momentum in the department and the Federal Trade Commission.

Though he endorsed its key elements, Ford said nothing about Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe's plea for stiffer prison sentences as well as fines for corporate conspirators.

Saxbe called on Friday for legislation raising the maximum prison term for price fixing from one year to five years.

Ford's written proposals for tougher fines were sent immediately to Congress where a House committee earlier in the day approved legislation setting the maximum corporate fine at half the amount Ford asked. The bill sets the individual fine at $100,000, as the President requested.

House scraps big changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has scrapped a proposal for sweeping reform of its committee structure in favor of a bill making minor changes in House procedures.

A 203-165 vote in favor of the alternate proposal ended an 18-month effort, based on a $1.5 million study, aimed at making the House more responsive to present-day needs.

Strong opposition from members whose committee assignments would be upset and from special interest groups accustomed to the present structure defeated the plan recommended by the reform committee.

The bill adopted in its place leaves committee jurisdictions largely unchanged. It would change the name of one committee from Interstate and Foreign Commerce to Commerce and Health.

Ford's testimony off for week

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's grilling by a House Judiciary subcommittee has been put off to a week from Thursday to avoid risking interference with the Watergate cover-up trial.

Chairman William L. Hungate, D-Mo., announced Tuesday that his subcommittee made the decision with White House concurrence "to afford ample time for selection and sequestration of the Watergate jury."

Hungate said his 6 p.m. EDT announcement that the Ford testimony, which had been scheduled for Thursday morning, would be postponed was triggered moments earlier by word from the court that the jury had not been selected.

He said he did not talk to U.S. District

Judge John Sirica and was given no indication how soon the closed-door jury selection might be completed.

At the courthouse, Todd Christofferson, Sirica's law clerk, told newsmen that on the judge's instructions he had called Hungate's office to pass the word that there was little chance of completing selection of a jury before Thursday.

Christofferson also quoted the judge as saying he remained hopeful of having a jury by the end of the week and that he felt jury selection was progressing well.

Tuesday was the sixth day of the search for 12 unbiased jurors and six alternates. The process continued to be carried out behind the closed, guarded doors of Courtroom No. 2, with all parties under orders from Sirica to say nothing.

Hungate said the subcommittee reached an understanding Monday to postpone Ford's testimony if there was no jury by 6 p.m. Tuesday because of the advance time needed for security and other arrangements for a president's appearance.

"You can't just wait around until the last minute and if they haven't got a jury tell the President to come back tomorrow," Hungate said.

Ford has agreed to answer 14 questions on his pardon of former President Richard M. Nixon and subcommittee members are to question him for elaboration on his answers.

The 14 questions include whether Ford knew of any pending criminal charges against Nixon when he granted the pardon, whether negotiations for it began before Nixon resigned and what Ford knew about Nixon's health. Hungate said the subcommittee will be limited to the 14 questions.

taxes the victims of inflation rather than the culprits.

"Shifting the burden of inflation solves nothing," Vanik said. "His plan would fuel inflation rather than retard it."

Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, said he was "really disappointed" by the President's proposals.

"You don't solve inflation by telling middle class Americans to drive less, eat less and pull in their belts more," Stokes said. "The middle class has been carrying the burden of inflation and taxes all along."

Rep. Clarence Brown, R-Ohio, said he "admired the candor of the President's speech because that honesty is needed in the consideration of today's economic circumstances." But he said he would not vote against the tax surcharge as it was proposed.

"I would have preferred...that the President stress a more hard-nosed attitude about reducing federal spending instead of the 5 per cent surcharge on income taxes of middle income wage earners, who are currently the major support of federal taxes and are among the hardest hit by inflation," Brown said.

In Ohio's 1st Congressional District, both Democratic Rep. Thomas Luken and Republican candidate Willis D. Gradison Jr. criticized the surcharge, saying it would hit too hard at middle Americans.

Most other Ohio political candidates had no immediate comment on the proposals.

Democratic senatorial candidate John Glenn said he would not comment on specific parts of the plan until he had had time to study it. But he said he was "gratified to see that the President covered many of those things which I have proposed."

He said those included an end to deficit spending, a national energy policy, tax reform, industry incentives, enforcement of anti-trust laws and government employment programs.

Glenn's opponent, Cleveland Mayor Ralph Perk, was not available for comment. His staff said he was enroute to Washington for a White House dinner.

A spokesman for Democratic Gov. John J. Gilligan said the governor had not heard the speech and would have no comment until after he'd studied it.

A spokesman for Republican gubernatorial candidate, former Gov. James A. Rhodes, referred newsmen to a statement issued earlier in the day which said Gilligan was the chief cause of inflation in Ohio.

More taxes

the House Agriculture Committee, however, said that without more assurances of profit Ford's measures would not do the job.

Ford said marketing orders and other regulations were being reviewed to end or change those responsible for inflated prices.

He proposed extended special unemployment benefits and creation of a temporary Community Improvement Corps that would go into action when national unemployment exceeded 6 per cent, providing "short-term useful work projects to improve, beautify and enhance the environment of our cities, towns and countryside."

On energy, Ford told Congress, "If you've forgotten the shortages of last winter, most Americans have not."

He called on Congress to deregulate natural gas prices, open up Navy oil reserves in California and Alaska, modify environmental strictures on use of fuel and pass surface mining legislation balancing considerations of supply with environmental protection.

He also announced creation of a National Energy Board, headed by Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton, to develop a national energy program, with instructions to reduce imports of foreign oil by one million barrels a day by the end of 1975.

Stock list erratic

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market responded erratically to President Ford's new economic plan today, slipping a bit at the outset but recovering again at midday.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 2.19 at 604.82, although losers held onto a small lead over gainers in quiet trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said they had expected the market to waver uncertainly for a while as investors assessed the proposals outlined by Ford in an address to a joint session of Congress Tuesday afternoon.

A number of individual stock groups registered favorable responses to the Ford message.

The Dow Jones average of 15 utilities, for example, was up .35 at 63.55, with an apparent lift from tax proposals by the President aimed at relieving utilities' capital-raising problems.

Coals gained strongly on Ford's call for conversion of all oil-fired power plants to coal or nuclear power by 1980. North American Coal climbed 2 3/4 to 24 1/4, and Pittston was ahead 1 1/4 at 29 1/4.

IBM, which introduced a new data storage system, was up 1 1/4 at 163 1/4.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks rose .20 to 63.44.

TMC Mortgage Investors was the Amex volume leader, down 2% at 10 1/4.

Martha wants more cash from John

NEW YORK (AP) — Martha Mitchell's lawyer says she needs more money to cope with the high cost of living. But an attorney for her husband says she is living pretty high already.

The conflict arose Tuesday during a Manhattan state Supreme Court hearing as Mrs. Mitchell pressed her petition for $3,000 a week temporary alimony and $35,000 in counsel fees from her estranged husband, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

As Mrs. Mitchell sat in a spectator's seat, her lawyer, Richard Creditor, said "She has made some money from public appearances. She was forced to do so, particularly in view of the high cost of living."

Mrs. Mitchell's financial situation was "dire," Creditor added, and she has been forced to support herself by "doing things which are not in her best interest."

But lawyer Marvin Segal noted that his client Mitchell was in Washington, where he is on trial on charges of taking part in the Watergate cover-up.

He could not consult his client and needed more time, Segal said. He added that arrangements were in progress to give Mrs. Mitchell a payment "so that the problem of subsistence will be adequately covered."

2 persons killed in auto accident

EATON, Ohio (AP)—Two persons died Tuesday when the truck in which they were riding crashed into a concrete pillar on I-70 in Preble County, authorities said.

The victims were identified as Robert Jones, 32, of Bourbon, Mo., and Betty Rascher, 28, of Gillsman, Ind.

Opinion And Comment

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

Doughnut hole grows bigger

Doughnuts, at a New York City grocery chain, have gone from 20 cents each to 30 cents. You are paying for a bigger hole.

You don't even get sugar or chocolate coating with the 30-cent sinker. Such are the realities of life in the marketplace. Yet, with 1,200-odd alleged economic thinkers assemble in Washington D.C., to give President Ford the benefit of their views, their predominating theme is how to fight recession, not inflation. They not only want to preserve, they want to extend, the social services and the assorted subsidies that we have come to take for granted during 40 years of an inflation psychosis.

Nobody is psychologically prepared to take a cutback. The unions, in addition to unemployment insurance, want a new WPA. Population growth may have levelled off, but contractors want cheaper mortgage money. Shipyards with facilities to construct much-needed offshore drilling equipment would not seem to be in overwhelming need of new ship construction contracts, but some of the big brains in Congress think we should compel the Persian Gulf oil states to send a certain fixed percentage of their oil to us in American-built bottoms.

(This, of course, would add a few pennies to the price of gasoline.)

In New York City, Mayor Beame wants Jerry Ford's personal assurance that the Federal government will underwrite the continuation of the 35-cent subway fare. Investors want a better break for capital gains. The State Department thinks poorly of cutting back on foreign aid, some of which goes to the oil-rich Arab states.

This column has had plenty of reason to disagree with Professor John Kenneth Galbraith over the years, but for once it must commend Harvard's Number One interventionist-minded economist for hitting the nail on the head in a public statement. After listening to the economic non-sequiturs of his colleagues who are presuming to guide President Ford, Galbraith noted rather wryly that they were still far more concerned with the fate of public spending projects than they were with inflation. Galbraith could only conclude that fighting recession was much more fun than trying to rescue the dollar.

When we worked together on Fortune magazine, Galbraith used to kid me for being a "Puritan" about economics. In the affluent atmosphere of the late 1940s and the '50s, Galbraith prided himself on being a "Rumanian" about loading the economy with subsidies and public projects. Now, in his late middle age, he is becoming something of a Puritan himself. Or, if not that, he has at least decided to call things by their right names.

The point is that we don't really mean business about fighting inflation. If we did, the government would not have convened in Washington all those wonderful folks of the '50s and '60s who brought us our financial Pearl Harbor by their talk of fine-tuning the economy. The wonderful folks, Keynesian to the marrow, made some obeisance to the necessity of restraining Federal spending, but they offered no way of closing what anti-Keynesians such as economist Gary North call the "agency debt loophole."

The U.S. is committed to the continuation and amplification of such "independent" public agencies as the Postal Service, the Tennessee Valley Authority, Amtrak, the Rural Electrification Agency, the Overseas Private Investment Corporation and whatnot, all of which are entitled by law to go into debt as they please with the "full faith and credit" backing of the Federal government. Gary North estimates that the total debt load of Federal agencies jumped from $1.6 billion in 1947 to 71.3 billion in 1973. These debts don't even get into the Federal government's budget, which Congress never seems able to bring into balance.

If we really meant business about ending the inflation, we would be doing such things as removing the controls on natural gas at the well head, or telling the shipyards that they had better rely on building drilling rigs than expensive U.S.-owned oil tankers. We would be preparing to let mail-carrying contracts to the highest private bidder. We would be cutting back on food stamps and telling local officials to emulate Detroit's "Potato Patch" Pingree of the 1890s who made city plots available to private citizens to raise some of their own food. We would begin exalting the voluntary association over the TVA and the Overseas Investment Corporation.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

On April 27, 1973 at 9:50 a.m., Governor Gilligan issued an executive order dividing Ohio into 11 service districts. At the exact same hour he issued another executive order establishing 15 planning regions. Planning area six and service area six are identical and consist of Fayette, Pickaway, Fairfield, Licking, Delaware, Union, Madison and Franklin counties.

The Mid-Ohio Regional Planning Commission, under the auspices of the Ohio Department of Economic and Community Development, has been for the last two years trying to set up and organize this planning area. Franklin County has 71 per cent of the population and, therefore, seems to feel they should be able to completely dominate all other seven counties. They have objected to the inclusion of any meaningful protective clauses in either the allocation of voting strength or bylaws. Hence, the hangup as far as the smaller counties are concerned.

Last time I discussed with you how Governor Gilligan's Commission on Local Government Services recommended elimination of elective local officials and make them appointive by the county commissioners. I also predicted that within two years county commissioners themselves would be eliminated. I then asked the question what would take the place of all this?

I believe with Governor Gilligan's setup of either service districts or planning areas (11 of one and 15 of the other) we have the vehicle which could step in and administer local government.

Under this plan, there would be at the outset a governing body, selected in some manner not precisely defined and outlined at this time. This is not too important because, once the framework of the organization is established, such as details of allocating voting strength, financing, composition of standing committees and etc. could be determined by those having the preponderance of voting strength. In our case, this would be either Franklin County alone or Franklin and one other county.

The whole composite picture, to me, falls in place when you stand back and take an overall look at the planning areas, service areas and the recommendations of the Ohio Commission on Local Government Services.

So, the question boils down to this: Is all of this a planned scheme to eliminate counties as basic units of government and replace them with 11 service districts or 15 planning areas? This would give us the dubious "advantage" of being helped by experts from the university (any university). Perhaps, I am overly skeptical, but when I see some of the antics on the part of state and national officials I get nervous. Your judgment is as good as mine.

J. Herbert Perrill
County Commissioner

P.S. Did you know a foundation project carried out at Harvard University made a study of the Indo-Australian ant at a cost of $70,000? The study was terminated because, as an official explained, "we were not readily able to describe the purpose of the research."

No fooling!

It's Esposito against Barone

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Smith is challenging incumbent Brown for attorney general in the Nov. 5 election. It could just as easily have been George Esposito versus William Barone.

George Smith, Franklin County prosecutor, said his late father changed the family name from Esposito before he was born. He doesn't remember why and isn't sure he ever did know the reason.

William J. Brown, the attorney general, traces his Italian name of Barone back to his grandfather, who changed to Brown at the suggestion of a banker.

Brown said the banker wouldn't lend money to anyone with a "strange" name like Barone, but was happy to advance Mr. Brown $837 to buy a new car.

Based on the abundance of elected Ohio officials with the same surname, it would appear "Billy Joe" Brown got the better of the name-change deal.

Brown, youngest man ever elected attorney general in Ohio, conceded "you've got to be extremely lucky" to gain statewide office at an age of 31.

"I was the best man for the job in 1970," he added without hesitating.

Brown was elected in a Democratic landslide that saw only two Republicans survive in statewide contests.

Now 34, the usually brash attorney general agreed that he probably benefited from some on-the-job training during his first term. He is standing for re-election on what a press release called "an impressive record of legal and administrative achievement in place of the chaos and massive backlogs he inherited from previous attorneys general."

He was born in Youngstown and reared in Cadiz. He was graduated from Duquesne University and Ohio Northern Law School. Brown began practicing law with the Office of Economic Opportunity and was with a private firm in Lisbon, Ohio, when he won the Democratic nomination for attorney general in 1970.

Last summer he relinquished his status as one of the capitol's most eligible bachelors. His wife Cheryl is a former Youngstown nurse.

Brown has little to say about his opponent and generally does not issue formal responses to Smith's broadsides.

Recently, however, Brown asked Gov. Gilligan for additional authority to investigate possible election law violations within the statewide Democratic party after Smith accused him of foot-dragging on a federal report.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Give Bully an out-of-school lesson

DEAR ABBY: If someone tries to pick a fight with you at school and you have done everything you can to avoid a fight, but that person starts pusing you around, and you have to use force to defend yourself, do you think it's fair that the person who was trying to defend himself should get punished just the same as the troublemaker?

What is a person supposed to do when he is picked on by someone who is trying to get him into a fight? I am not going to just stand there and let him push me around. Fighting is against the rules on our school grounds.

UNFAIRLY PUNISHED

DEAR UN: When someone tries to provoke a fight by pushing you around, instead of pushing HIM around, report him to the authorities.

This may sound like the chicken's way out, but it's the only way to protect yourself from the punishment of breaking the "no fighting" rules at your school. (P.S. You might consider taking some lessons in self-defense, and give that bully a surprise lesson in case he ever tries to push you around OFF the school grounds.)

DEAR ABBY: I read about that mother who never wanted children but she accidentally had two anyway. She said not all women were cut out to be mothers, and she was one of them.

She may be interested in my story: My husband and I always wanted a large family. Ten months after we were married I gave birth to a healthy baby boy. We couldn't wait to have more.

Twelve miscarriages later, I had another son. He was born dead.

A year later, I gave birth to another son.

Eighteen months later, a third son was born, but we soon discovered that our second and third sons were both severely deaf.

They needed special education. After thousands of dollars worth of tutoring and much hard work, our two deaf sons are now able to talk nearly as well as our normal son.

I wanted children desperately, and their being handicapped doesn't make us love them any less. Some handicaps can be overcome.

I hope that mother realizes that in her refusal to love her children she is handicapped. And I hope she overcomes her handicap before it handicaps her unloved children.

LUCKY IN ILLINOIS.

DEAR LUCKY: Your children are lucky too. God bless you.

DEAR ABBY: Three cheers for the young mother who had the courage to admit that she felt "stuck" with her two kids who were both accidents.

I have one child, but she wasn't an accident. I really wanted a child, but I soon realized that I wasn't cut out to be a mother. I have never abused my child, but I am positive I do not want another one.

Now if my in-laws and friends would just leave me alone, and quit telling me how "wrong" it is to raise only one child, I would appreciate it.

And if this letter is printed, I hope my husband's family in New Jersey reads it and sees the light. Thank you.

ONE IS BEAUTIFUL IN N.Y.
DEAR ONE: Leave nothing so important to chance. Clip this column and mail it to them.

CONFIDENTIAL TO J. IN MINNEAPOLIS: Tell your husband that you'll lose 10 pounds if he'll lose 20. I can't think of a way to have a closer relationship.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Ohio political debates slated

By The Associated Press
Debating has captured the minds of Ohio political candidates, with challenges in the secretary of state and attorney general races.

Franklin County Prosecutor George Smith, Republican candidate for attorney general, accused incumbent

William J. Brown of refusing five times to debate him. Brown's staff said it wasn't so.

Mike D'Angelo, Brown's campaign manager, said Brown has agreed to meet Smith in a debate Oct. 23 at the Cuyahoga County Bar Association. He said Brown turned down an Oct. 21 debate at the Cleveland City Club because it was too close to the other Cleveland debate.

Tony Hall, Democratic nominee for secretary of state, Tuesday asked incumbent Ted W. Brown to debate him on a broadcast program in an effort "toward clearing the air of several issues in this campaign which my opponent has chosen to ignore."

A staff member in Brown's office said he was uncertain whether Brown would accept.

In an appearance in Toledo, senate candidate John Glenn called for a four-point health program which he said would help combat the rising cost of medical care and insure better uniformity of care for Americans.

In a speech before the staff and faculty of the Medical College of Ohio, Glenn described America as "the last major industrialized nation not to have a form of national health insurance or general health care program" to protect families against the cost of catastrophic illness.

Glenn's opponent, Republican Ralph Perk, again denied rumors he was planning to drop out of the senate race.

In a Cleveland news conference, Perk said the "rumors were obviously deliberate lies."

"I am still in the race — I am in excellent health — and nothing agrees with me more than campaigning. I draw strength from the people."

"When I enter a race, I intend to stay in and to win — especially one in which my credentials for serving in the United States Senate so far exceed those of my opponent."

Incumbent Democratic Gov. John J. Gilligan went on the attack Tuesday, calling his opponent, former Gov. James A. Rhodes, "a candidate who crawls out of the bushes, lob a hand grenade and crawls back in the bushes again."

Gilligan said Rhodes is "hiding behind his mimeograph machine."

He said Rhodes has refused seven invitations to debate.

"There is no better way to present our views to the people than by face-to-face debate in a public forum," Gilligan said. "But Jim Rhodes is afraid to face me. Why?"

Rhodes said in Toledo that such debates just become shouting matches between supporters of the candidates. He also pressed his attack on Gilligan's spending and taxation policies.

Courts

CASE DISMISSED

The case of Dr. William E. Lawyer against the city of Washington C.H. has been dismissed in Common Pleas Court.

Judge Evelyn W. Coffman dismissed the case filed Aug. 2, 1973 concerning a sewage line, under agreements made with both attorneys. Otis R. Hess Jr. acted as attorney for the plaintiff, Dr. Lawyer, and James A. Kiger, served in the city's defense.

In dismissing the action, Judge Coffman ordered the city to replace sewer lines "from the inside of the plaintiff's property on E. Market Street and run a new sewer service therefrom connecting with the city sewer located east of the telephone company in an alley parallel with and between E. Market Street and E. Temple Street."

Class action postponed

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Blue Cross of Southwestern Ohio won a postponement until Nov. 1 in a class action suit alleging it illegally charged excessive premiums to build up a $50 million treasury.

The non-profit insurance group asked for more time to defend itself against the action filed by attorney Vernon R. Brose.

Brose filed suit on behalf of himself and similar policy holders in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court.

Brose asked the court to place the reserves in a trust and order the medical carrier to reduce rates while the reserves are dissipated.

Brose also asked the court to invalidate mergers between Blue Cross of Southwest Ohio and Blue Cross units in Lima and Canton. He said the merger was arranged to spread the reserves over a larger number of policy holders.

Peace prize share for Sato blasted

By GENE KRAMER

Associated Press Writer

Some Japanese political leaders have criticized former Prime Minister Eisaku Sato's receipt of a share of the 1974 Nobel Peace Prize. They contend he didn't deserve it because of his role in keeping U.S. military forces in Japan.

The selection of Sato and Sean MacBride of Ireland as coveinners of the award was announced Tuesday in Oslo, Norway. Citations said the selections were for Sato's efforts to limit nuclear weapons and stabilize conditions in Asia and MacBride's many years of work to protect human rights.

The Nobel Committee of the Norwegian parliament said the two would share the $124,000 award equally. Both men are expected to be in Oslo Dec. 10 to accept it.

"Sean MacBride's efforts for human rights and Eisaku Sato's work for limitation of nuclear weapons and for international conciliation contributed each in its own way to securing peace," the committee said. "Their efforts have come in areas that in our time are central to the work for peace."

Director Tim Greve of the Nobel Institute said about 50 candidates had been nominated for the 1974 prize. Candidates' names are never officially revealed.

It was the first time that a Japanese or an Irishman won the Peace Prize, although five Japanese and two Irishmen have received Nobel prizes in other categories. The award is named for the late Alfred Nobel, the Swedish inventor of dynamite, who donated the prize fund.

Sato, 73, was Japan's prime minister from 1964 to 1972. He said on learning in Tokyo of his choice that he knew he was being considered but had thought he would not win.

A Socialist party official quickly criticized the selection, declaring that Sato as prime minister "vehemently maintained" the U.S.-Japanese Security Pact "which, as a result, allows U.S. ships to bring nuclear weapons to Japan."

The prize was split last year between Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and North Vietnamese Politburo member Le Duc Tho for their Vietnam peace accord, which ended American involvement in the Vietnam war. That decision caused an uproar that resulted in the resignation of two of the five members of the Nobel Committee.

MacBride, 70, a former Irish independence fighter whose father was executed by the British, is now United Nations Commissioner for South-West Africa, or Namibia.

The Olympic games became a national Greek festival in 776 B.C.

Rockefeller money stirs controversy

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the congressmen researching Nelson A. Rockefeller's financial affairs says the vice president-designate's gifts to his associates "raise serious questions about propriety and conflicts of interest."

Rep. Edward Mezvinsky, D-Iowa, a member of the House Judiciary Committee which will hold hearings on the Rockefeller nomination next month, called for the former New York governor "to disclose publicly every gift he has made in his lifetime, as well as all the loans" outstanding or written off.

Meanwhile, the Senate Rules Committee scheduled a meeting today to consider how to react to the information about the gifts.

The meeting originally had been set in hope of receiving the audits of Rockefeller's tax returns. However, that information will not be available until at least the third week of October.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike

Mansfield of Montana said the reports of gifts could well cause the Senate hearings to be reopened.

He said the gifts appear legitimate but are bound to raise questions about the nominee.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania said, "I see nothing that has impaired the integrity of Mr. Rockefeller in any way."

Mezvinsky said in an interview Tuesday that the gifts so far reported in the press and subsequently confirmed by a Rockefeller spokesman do not constitute a complete list. But he refused to divulge others, citing the secrecy imposed by the House Judiciary Committee's rules.

"I think it would be in Mr. Rockefeller's interest to make a full disclosure himself and the sooner the better," Mezvinsky said. "If this festers, dribbling out a little at a time, it reinforces the view that there may be some problems."

Workmen's compensation reviewed for Rotarians

The operation of the Ohio Bureau of Workmen's Compensation was explained to members of the Washington C.H. Rotary Club at the regular weekly luncheon meeting Tuesday in the Country Club.

Gene Steele, of Columbus, assistant director of the claims department for the Ohio Bureau of Workmen's Compensation, explained that the bureau's primary purpose is to provide recovery for workers who are injured or become disabled during the course of their employment. He said the workmen's compensation laws also provide immunity to employers from any law suits filed by workers who are involved in on-the-job accidents.

WORKMEN'S compensation was established in Ohio in 1911, according to Steele, who pointed out that the bureau is actually operating one of the largest insurance companies in the world.

The bureau, Steele said receives approximately $200 million in premiums from employers per year and the bureau pays out a like amount. The bureau processes about 400,000 new claims each year, he said.

The workmen's compensation payments cover injuries, occupational diseases, and death benefits.

Steele stressed the over-the-years change in the amount of money the bureau pays to injured or disabled workers. He said when the bureau started the maximum payment was $12 per week, now the maximum payment is $112 per week.

New provisions in the workmen's compensation law, which became effective July 1, were reviewed by Steele.

He said now all employers with more than one worker must carry workmen's compensation; household employees, earning over $50 per quarter, are now required to be covered by the compensation, and sole proprietors of businesses can now obtain the benefits.

Steele later in the meeting fielded questions about the operation of the workmen's compensation program

DURING THE regular business meeting, conducted by club president Paul Crosby, Community Education program director Hank Shaffer expressed his gratitude to a number of Rotarians who participated in the Offsides benefit football game last weekend. About a dozen Rotarians played in the game, while numerous others sold tickets and others officiated.

Other guests were Jerry Sheppard with Bill Pool, Rodman Scott with David Ogan and Carl Lowery with Vern Haugen.

Visiting Rotarians were Jerry Ardrey, of London, Otie Hockman, Art Dick and Dave Kohli, all of Mount Sterling, and Stan Butler, of Schenectady, N.Y. Student guests were Phil Skinner, of MTHS, and Jeff DaRif, of WSHS.

Circle III

Mrs. Leonard Scott was hostess to Circle III of First Presbyterian Church, when Mrs. Ralph Jones, leader, opened the meeting by reading from Psalm 27. Mrs. Dorothy Donohoe read from the Yearbook of Prayer concerning missions in Pueblo, Colo., and Utah. The News Interpretation was given by Mrs. Scott, which consisted of excerpts from individual letters highlighting specific examples of the results of the mission work in the field.

It was announced that the district workshops will be Oct. 9 in South Salem and in Washington C.H. Oct. 10 from 7:30 until 9:30 p.m. with Mrs. Gerald Wheat, district chairman, as leader. The program for the coming year will be "Eight New Testament Persons Who Knew Jesus" from Neighborhood Bible Study.

The Bible Study was given by Mrs. Howard Perrill, who chose the Gospel of Mark as the basis for her remarks. Mark, by his continuous use of straightway, forthwith and immediate stresses how very much Jesus accomplished in the three years of his teaching. All the way through Mark's gospel, he emphasizes the importance of people rather than things.

The meeting was adjourned and refreshments were served by the hostess followed by a very enjoyable social hour.

Class theme is 'Love'

"Love" was the theme for devotions when the Golden Rule Class of the Bloomingburg United Methodist Church met in the church. Mr. Robert Huff read from John 3:16 and First Corinthians 13:13 and Mr. Robert Grim conducted the meeting.

It was reported that the class made a profit on the serving of lunch at the recent Andrews & Baughn hog sale, for which Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Bloomer were co-chairmen.

A bazaar is planned at the church Nov. 9 beginning at 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. A lunch will be served.

The 22 members and guests were invited to the basement of the church when a Halloween party followed with games and contests. Mr. and Mrs. Huff and Mr. and Mrs. Phil Haines served refreshments.

Committee members for the November meeting will be Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Iden, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Blessing and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Duff.

New semester courses set

BY AUDREY SMITH

English courses at the high school this year for 11th and 12th graders are science fiction, mythology, speed reading, Bible literature, American literature, journalism, composition, short story, speech, the media, and a two semester course in English III for reading improvement.

All of these courses except the last are for one semester only. Every junior must select two courses, but only seniors in the college preparatory program are required to take English.

These courses are being taught on an experimental basis, so the school did not purchase textbooks. Most of the materials being used are collected and mimeographed.

Composition, speech, American literature, and English III have been taught before, but this is the first year for the other courses.

Mrs. Pat Gall, head of the English department, made this comment, "The English department is very pleased so far with the acceptance of this program, and we hope to be able to expand it in the coming years."

View of typical K-Mart store

New K-Mart store opens Oct. 31

Washington C.H.'s newest discount outlet will stage its grand opening ceremony Oct. 31.

The 39,797 square foot K-Mart department store, located on Columbus Avenue across from Storybrook Addition, has been stocking its shelves with merchandise in preparation for the opening.

Approximately 35 local residents have been employed at the store with additional personnel to be hired part-time during holiday seasons. The employees are being trained by supervisory personnel in anticipation of the opening.

THE WASHINGTON C.H. K-Mart store is one of three sizes of the chain, which is owned and operated by the S.S.

Kresge Co., headquartered in Troy, Mich. The "Group Nine" store is the smallest in size but will carry most of the merchandise that the 100,000 square foot stores offer. Included in the various departments of the store will be appliances, clothing, hardware, sewing goods, jewelry, health and beauty aids and an automotive center.

The new manager brings with him 17 years of retail experience with the S.S. Kresge Co. and was formerly co-manager of a K-Mart store in Detroit, Mich.

According to the manager, the store will sell "quality merchandise at discount prices with the K-Mart unconditional satisfaction guarantee."

The local store will have parking facilities to accommodate 300 cars as an additional feature. Pavement has been added to Columbus Avenue to widen the roadway at the entrance to the store.

Developers Diversified, a shopping center development firm headquartered in the Cleveland suburb of Beechwood, constructed the building and leased it to the S.S. Kresge Co. on a long-term basis.

Hospital department heads eye cost containment study

Using a training program designed by the American Hospital Association, department heads at Fayette County Memorial Hospital are returning to the classroom to improve their skills and techniques on how to expand their services, yet hold down charges to patients.

"Although mandatory wage and price controls recently were lifted for the health industry, we will continue our effort to hold down the patient's hospital bill despite inflationary pressures from the outside," said R.L. Kunz, hospital Administrator. "Our management and supervisory personnel are involved in cost containment as part of their ongoing, day-to-day responsibilities. This training program will help all of us do a better job."

THE AHA program, instructed by Kunz, is aimed at department heads and supervisors to provide them with a better working knowledge of how their cost containment activities contribute to the overall financial condition of the hospital. Major emphasis in the training program is placed on step-by-step activities that department heads and supervisors can employ in their specific areas of responsibility in order to identify problems and opportunities, analyze alternative solutions and implement changes.

The training program first examines the recent history and current status of costs and cost trends in the health care industry and then explores the components of hospital costs and the reasons for upward cost trends in terms of technical, economic and social pressures. Also explored are the many forces exerted through legislation and consumer groups to contain and, if possible, turn back the tide of rising costs.

Common techniques of hospital cost control are reviewed, with emphasis on the distinction between how these techniques usually are used and how they should be used for maximum benefit.

The course emphasizes a technique known as "operations management" and deals with its role, characteristics, methodology, and benefits as a tool in the identification, analysis and implementation of cost control opportunities.

BECAUSE the success of the training program depends largely on involvement of the participants, actual hospital cost containment situations are analyzed and evaluated for subsequent discussion. The course, also, is designed to allow the instructor at the hospital to include specific data from his hospital's costs.

The self-administered workshop consists of five weekly two-hour sessions. A lecture and slide presentation will be a part of each session, with class discussion an important component. The last three sessions will be focused on certain case study assignments which will be completed outside of class and discussed at the seminar sessions.

Ocasek eyes challenge to Calabrese

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Democratic leaders in both legislative chambers may be challenged for their posts late this year—not just House Speaker A.G. Lancione, D—99 Bellaire. Sen. Oliver Ocasek, D—27 Akron, presently the assistant minority leader in the upper chamber, said Tuesday he is considering running for the top job currently held by Anthony O. Calabrese, D—22 Cleveland.

If he does, he would join Speaker Pro Tem Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D—89 New Boston, as a second-in-command with an eye toward bigger things when Democrats caucus after the Nov. 5 election.

Riffe said late last month he intends to challenge Lancione for the speaker's chair.

Hopes of both challengers apparently depend on whether Democrats retain control of the House in November and take away from Republicans their present 17-16 edge in the Senate.

Ocasek won't run, he said, if Democrats do not win the Senate. "There wouldn't be any need for a tussle if that were the case," said the 44-year-old University of Akron professor.

Fayette County shares federal job revenue

COLUMBUS — Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan today announced an award of $130,286 in federal manpower revenue sharing funds to Fayette and Clinton counties.

More than $2.5 million Title II funds were awarded to the Ohio Department of Economic and Community Development's manpower development division to serve 45 Ohio counties and two cities in the state's manpower planning jurisdiction. The Ohio Department of Administrative Services administers the program.

The grant will provide area residents with approximately 19 public service jobs under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973 (CETA).

State and local government agencies will receive funds from the program to provide jobs for disadvantaged persons that will serve public needs.

The grant, appropriated under Title II of CETA, provides funds to areas which have a high unemployment rate — 6.5 per cent or more — to provide jobs for recently discharged veterans, inner city youth, females, persons of limited English-speaking ability and other unemployed or underemployed groups.

Unemployed heads of households are given priority for jobs, which average $7,000 per year. Participants in the program will be offered job-related training which will help them move on to unsubsidized employment.

Airplane stolen at Lunken airport

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—A $32,000 airplane stolen from Lunken Airport sometime late Monday or early Tuesday had a range of 720-1,100 miles and a full load of gasoline.

Roger Van Pelt, general manager of Key Aviation Inc., said the thieves apparently "hot wired" the ignition. The keys remained in the office vault when the plane was discovered missing Tuesday.

The Piper Cherokee Six was leased by Key from Cincinnati Air Transportation Inc.

Clear skies favor nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Showers dissipated over Western and Southwestern states today, leaving weather conditions across most of the nation fair and mild.

Scattered showers dampened parts of Nevada, Utah and New Mexico. Nearly half an inch of rain fell Tuesday evening at Concord, Calif.

A band of thunderstorms across southern Florida also weakened.

Skies remained overcast across the Great Lakes region, northern Ohio Valley and parts of the Northeast, and rain and drizzle fell in Upper Michigan.

Ground fog developed in the Pacific Northwest and in sections of central Oklahoma and eastern Kansas.

Skies over the rest of the nation were mostly clear.

Below-normal temperatures persisted in the Northeast, where many overnight readings fell into the 30s.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 26 at Houlton, Maine, to 82 at Blythe, Calif.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT

AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — First, the good news: "Monty Python's Flying Circus," a hit British comedy series, will be set loose in the U.S. this month. Now, the bad news: Only 18 public TV stations are carrying it initially.

But Time-Life Films, Inc., which is distributing the BBC-produced program, says it hopes to sell the 13-week series to additional stations across the U.S. in coming weeks.

American viewers got a brief look at the Python emporium this year on NBC's "Midnight Special" show and "Dean Martin's Comedyworld" summer series.

But for those who missed it, I guess the only way to characterize the show is to say it defies logic, dashes through various skits more briskly than a speeding locomotive and combines live action with brilliant, bizarre montage animation.

The first show, which opened last night on WNET-TV here and will start on most of the other Python stations this week, was a mind-bender extraordinaire.

For example, it had a skit entitled: "How to recognize trees from quite a long way away." Then it showed a tree called a larch. Then, as part of the course, it went into a courtroom to cover the trial of a man named Larch, charged with a parking offense.

The prosecutor said: "I now call the late Arthur Aldridge."

"Is there any relevance in questioning the deceased?" inquired the judge as a coffin was brought in and put on the witness stand.

The witness, the prosecutor explained, "is virtually dead, m'lord. He's not completely dead, but he's not at all well." He also noted the witness answers questions by knocking on the side of the coffin.

Peddling preachers in trouble with agency

By MARGARET GENTRY

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Rev. Sun Myung Moon and his fervent disciples are swooping across the country with a brand of Christianity embracing politics and peddling.

To their dismay, they've swooped straight into the hands of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, which thinks the Rev. Moon's Unification Church may be teaching its young foreign trainees more about peddling than preaching.

The Immigration Service has threatened to deport 61 of the foreign trainees who failed to leave the country after their visitor's visas expired. About 500 more face similar treatment.

"I am again and again embarrassed in front of them that our country in effect is saying, 'We don't want you,'" said Neil A. Salonen, president of the church's American branch.

While the government moves toward judgment, the church is proceeding with heavily advertised "day of hope" rallies scheduled in six cities before Christmas.

In Washington, site of the Oct. 16 appearance, thousands of handbills bearing the Korean preacher's sedate visage are blooming from sidewalk trash cans, vacant store windows and the fences along construction projects.

The blitz then moves to Atlanta,

Chicago, Seattle, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Published and broadcast advertising for such rallies consumes much of the U.S. church's multimillion-dollar annual budget.

Salonen said 90 per cent of the $7 million raised last year came from the fund-raising activities such as those questioned by the Immigration Service.

The converts, most of them youthful,

are dispatched to peddle peanuts, flowers, candles and other small items door-to-door or from small sidewalk stands.

Trainees peddle "only as part of a much larger program of evangelism," lecturing, Bible and other religious study, prayer, workshops and many other activities," Salonen said.

But the immigration service saw it differently.

First of three big road trips

Panthers hope to eliminate Tigers

By LARRY WATTS
Record-Herald Sports Editor

If the Panthers have any hopes of winning the South Central Ohio League crown this season, they must capture all three road contests in the league. When it comes to the league schedule, Miami Trace has the toughest task of any league team as its games with Circleville, Wilmington and Washington Court House are all on the road.

The first of the three big challenges will be this Friday night when the Panthers venture to Circleville. Miami Trace is currently 4-1 over-all and 1-0 in the SCOL. Circleville is maintaining a 3-2 season mark and is 1-1 in the league.

Both teams recorded victories last week, as Miami Trace trounced Hillsboro 50-6 and the Tigers bopped Wilmington 28-12. After dropping their first league game to Greenfield, the Tigers know that another defeat would probably knock them out of the league title picture. Circleville was rated by most people as the team to beat in the SCOL this season.

"Circleville is real tough and they have a grinding type of offense," pointed out Panther coach Fred Zechman. "They are running the same type of offense they ran when they won the SCOL two years ago. Their offense runs from several different formations which tends to give the defense a lot of problems."

The Tigers' tailback, Biff Bumgarner, is a hard, slashing type of runner. In last week's game, Bumgarner scored four touchdowns and carried the ball 28 times for 236 yards. He now has 449 yards rushing in 80 carries this season.

Another problem for the Panthers' defense will be fullback Pat McNaughton. McNaughton has chalked up 302 yards rushing in five games.

Scott Bowman is the stalwart of the offensive line. Bowman, who was a All-SCOL first team tackle last year, suits in at 6-foot 5 and weighs 218 pounds.

If there is a weak link in the Tigers' offensive attack, it would probably be at quarterback. Circleville coach Larry Cook has been alternating his signal callers this season. When in the need of a strong passer, Phil Roll will be calling the signals. When Cook wants to concentrate mainly on a running game, he usually gives the nod to Perry Hoskins.

"Both their offensive and defensive lines really attack you," reflected Zechman. "The key to their success is team quickness and they come off the ball real well."

Circleville's defense demonstrated its quickness last week against Wilmington's Jackie Watson. Watson, who came into the game with 468 yards in 61 carries and is regarded as the quickest runner in the SCOL, was held to just 36 yards in 12 carries.

Miami Trace's defense will be yielding an average of four pounds per player to the Tigers offense. The Panthers' offense will be averaging eight pounds heavier per player than Circleville's defense.

If the Tigers intend to hand the first league loss on the Panthers, they will have to stop Miami Trace's one-two offensive punch of fullback Jeff Sagar and quarterback Tom Riley.

In last week's slaughter of Hillsboro, Sagar rambled for 146 yards in 19 carries and scored three touchdowns. He has now scored 50 points and toted the ball 87 times for 564 yards.

Riley's passing has helped open the offensive attack of the Panthers. By completing six of 10 passes for 93 yards last week, Riley has now connected on 21 of 42 aeriels for 261 yards. His 5-foot 11, 183-pound frame has been an asset as he demonstrated by connecting on a 12-yard pass while two tacklers were hanging on him last week. Riley has also carried the ball 61 times for 273 yards.

In the Hillsboro game, cornerback Jim Glass became the second injury in the Panthers' defensive backfield this season. Glass sprained his ankle and is expected to miss this week's game. Cornerback Tom Pfaff was lost for the season when he tore the ligaments in his left knee against Jackson. Zechman has not yet named Glass' replacement, but the decision is expected to hinder on freshman Art Schlichter or sophomore Tony Walters.

Tight end Jay Mossbarger was selected as the offensive player of the week for the Panthers. Mossbarger had four clutch receptions for 72 yards in the Hillsboro contest. Most of the running plays were to his side and he had several key downfield blocks, including one which helped Kent Smith spring loose for his touchdown run of 32 yards.

Linebackers Greg Cobb and Smith

as he demonstrated by connecting on a 12-yard pass while two tacklers were hanging on him last week. Riley has also carried the ball 61 times for 273 yards.

The best hits of the week were credited to Sagar on offense and Mossbarger on defense. Sagar delivered a crushing blow to the Indians' cornerback on Riley's 25-yard touchdown run. Mossbarger snuffed out a screen pass when he hit Hillsboro fullback Ken Captain for a three-yard loss.

Bulldogs lead college poll

By The Associated Press

Louisiana Tech puts its 15-game winning streak and its No. 1 college division ranking on the line against Southwest Louisiana this weekend after a week off preserved the longest current skein among college football notables and kept the Bulldogs atop the weekly Associated Press poll.

Louisiana Tech long has been a powerhouse in its class but has wound up second in the final AP college division polls the past two seasons — to Delaware in 1972 and to Tennessee State last year — despite a 34-0 rout of Western Kentucky in the playoffs for the National Collegiate Athletic Association Division II title.

The Bulldogs, who haven't lost a regular-season game since the 1973 season opener against Eastern Michigan, found themselves again challenged by old foes in Tuesday's poll.

Delaware, which edged McNeese State 29-24 last weekend in a battle of ranked teams, moved into second place, with Western Kentucky third, Boise State fourth and Tennessee State fifth.

Louisiana Tech, 3-0 so far this season, received 22 No. 1 votes and 692 points from a nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters.

Delaware, 4-0, climbed up from third to challenge with 623 points and five first-place votes. McNeese, 3-1-0, slipped to ninth place from fifth.

Western Kentucky, 3-0 after whipping East Tennessee State 24-0, received five first-place votes but slipped one notch to third with 160 points. Boise State, 4-0 after a 36-16 triumph over Nevada-Reno, remained fourth with 568 points and two No. 1 votes and Tennessee State moved up from sixth to eighth with 322 points.

Texas A&I, with one top vote, moved up from 14th place to 10th after edging Stephen F. Austin 28-24 in another battle of ranked teams. Austin, 11th a week ago, slipped to 14th this week with a 3-1 record.

There was a major reshuffling among the ranked 15 although there were no new names on the roster. Only the top-ranked Bulldogs, Boise State and 15th-place Jacksonville State retained last week's positions.

Nevada-Las Vegas advanced to sixth from eighth after a 51-19 blitzing of Santa Clara; Indiana State, 4-0 following a 31-22 victory over Ball State, eased into seventh from ninth, and North Dakota, the only other ranked team to earn a No. 1 vote, moved up two places to eighth. McNeese and Texas A&I rounded out the second 10.

In the lower third are Elon, Grambling, Troy State, Stephen F. Austin and Jacksonville State.

Delta State, Virginia Union and Youngstown, Ohio, received one No. 1 vote apiece but failed to make the top 15.

Ohio outlook good for duck hunting

THE PAS, Manitoba (AP)— Clouds of waterfowl swirling over the potholes and prairies of this "duck factory" region of Canada stir high hopes for the upcoming hunting season in Ohio.

But, even though they're hatched I wouldn't count my ducks before they arrive. The weather has a way of dimming bright duck-shooting forecasts.

Dave Bowring of Dayton and I flew 1,800 miles by way of Cleveland, Toronto and Winnipeg to The Pas to sample the famed Manitoba waterfowling in late September shortly after the provincial season opened.

We also hoped to assess duck populations before the birds move south through Ohio and other Mississippi Flyway states to their wintering grounds in warmer climates of the United States and Mexico.

We lodged on Clearwater Lake about 30 miles north of The Pas for a week of shallow water lake trout fishing and waterfowling.

Manitoba, and especially The Pas area, is part of a vast expanse of Canada that is internationally known for its waterfowl production.

Countless natural and manmade lakes, marshes and prairie potholes provide prime nesting habitat for many species of ducks and geese.

It is estimated that 80 per cent of the ducks bagged in Ohio are hatched in Canada.

Flood-shooting is popular sport in this area that offers virtually unlimited waterfowling opportunities on millions of acres of public land and waters.

On one memorable day guide Leon Grosky treated us to creek shooting from a drifting outboard and a late evening hunt on a grain field in the Carrot River Valley southwest of The Pas, a community of 8,000 in west central Manitoba.

In the morning hundreds of mallards flushed from the marshy shore as the guide poled our boat with the current down Reader Creek. We soon bagged our limit of greenheads, then concentrated on small ducks — teal, scaup and goldeneyes — until late afternoon.

At sunset we just watched as thousands of ducks flocked into a lure crop planted by the provincial government to lessen waterfowl depredations on private grain fields nearby.

The weather had been reasonably good through most of September and that meant that northern ducks had not yet moved south, Grosky explained.

WFL slate revised

By HOWARD SINER

AP Sports Writer

The debt-ridden World Football League, ready to fold its two weakest franchises unless new owners step in to pay the bills, returns to action tonight with an abbreviated schedule.

With most of the 12-team WFL set for the 15th round on the 20-game schedule, the Jacksonville Sharks and the Detroit Wheels have been sidelined in an attempt to resolve their money troubles.

The WFL, now the owner of the two idle clubs, decided that Florida, which was to play Jacksonville, and Chicago,

Massie ends Lions' streak

Clinton-Massie put an end to Washington's undefeated string in varsity volleyball action on the Falcons' court, Tuesday afternoon.

Massie handed the Lions a 15-2 loss in the first game and defeated the Lions 12-8 in the second contest. The second match was called after eight minutes.

Top scorer for the losers was Betsy Krieger with five points. Janet Davis led the team with 12 set-ups, while Krieger added seven, Cindy Vaughn had six and Mary Ann Rudduck came through with five.

The reserves also lost their matches by scores of 15-5 and 15-3.

Rene Johns topped the reserves with three points. Joyce Warner was tops in set-ups with eight.

The varsity record is now 4-1, while the reserves have dipped to a 3-2 mark. Washington's next game will be at home with Circleville, next Monday.

which was to face Detroit, will fill the gap by meeting each other for the third time since July.

"It's always tough to beat the same team three times in one season," said Coach Jack Pardee of Florida, which has won both match-ups.

In other WFL games tonight, it's Memphis at Charlotte, Portland at Birmingham and the Hawaiians at Philadelphia. The nationally televised WFL game Thursday is Shreveport at Southern California.

League officials — worried that it would cost $1 million to foot both teams' bills until the season ends — are on the verge of dropping the Sharks and Wheels and distributing their players to the other teams.

Jacksonville is last in the WFL Eastern Division with four victories and 10 losses. Detroit, 1-13, is last in the league's Central Division.

Leading the WFL East with a 10-4 record, the Florida Blazers also have been plagued by franchise troubles. But a Circuit Court judge in Orlando, Fla. has temporarily enjoined the league from taking over.

Chicago, 7-7, losers of five straight games, must stop Blazer Tommy Reamon, who has 962 yards rushing — second best in the WFL.

The league's top runner, J.J. Jennings of Memphis, will try to add to his 1,036-yard total when the Southmen, 12-2, play the Hornets, 9-5. It's the first game in Charlotte for the old New York Stars.

Trailing Central Division-leading Memphis by one game, Birmingham, 11-3, has dropped three of its last four games — one of them an upset by Portland, 4-9-1, which hopes for a repeat this time around.

Oklahoma picked over Texas

NEW YORK (AP) — The War of the Wishbones won't be fought until Saturday in Dallas, but the war of words is already under way between Coaches Darrell Royal of Texas and Barry Switzer of Oklahoma.

"OU should be a heavy favorite," said Royal. "Our inability to stop people on third-and-long drives me up a tree, but I doubt if they will be in many third-and-long situations."

How about that, Coach Switzer? "Our offense is not going to be able to run against the wind at eight yards a snap. It'll be our execution against their execution."

Look for Oklahoma to move the ball.

Look for Texas to move the ball. And look for Oklahoma to win 35-21.

Last week's record was 41 right, 18 wrong and two ties for a .695 percentage. Oklahoma's 63-0 rout of Wake Forest was called on the nose while two of the three Upset Specials — Kansas over Texas A&M and Duke over Purdue — also came through. The season's count is 185-76-8-709.

Since all three Upset Specials came through the previous Saturday, we won't keep you in suspense any longer. The Upset Special of the Week is Vanderbilt 24, Florida 21.

Second Upset Special: Georgia Tech 21, North Carolina 20. Tar Heels have been up for Maryland and Pitt and are looking ahead a week to N.C. State.

Ohio State 28, Wisconsin 17: This might be the Buckeyes' toughest test before Michigan. Wisconsin's coming off a shocking 59-20 rout of defensive-minded Missouri.

Michigan 31, Michigan State 7: Michigan heads for Madison, Wis., next Saturday and for payday this weekend.

Nebraska 24, Missouri 10: Cornhuskers avenge last year's 13-12 setback.

Notre Dame 38, Rice 0: Ara Parseghian doesn't like Rice Coach Al Conover. That's bad ... for Conover and Rice.

Southern California 21, Washington State 7: Doesn't figure to be anything like last year's 46-35 brouhaha.

Texas A&M 20, Texas Tech 14: But could easily go the other way.

Auburn 17, Kentucky 3: This is the Year of the Tiger ... on defense.

Arkansas 28, Baylor 15: Everybody wants that SWC crown now that Texas has lost a conference game.

Kansas 28, Kansas State 14: Jayhawks play tough defense.

Miami, Ohio 21, Ohio U. 7: Redskins believe in the Post Office motto about swift completion of their appointed rounds and all that.

Wisconsin planning ball control contest

CHICAGO (AP) — Coach John Jardine doesn't care how his Wisconsin Badgers do it as long as they keep the ball away from top-ranked Ohio State in their key Big Ten football clash Saturday at Columbus.

"No, I don't think we have to ram it down their throats," Jardine told the Chicago Football Writers in a telephone interview Tuesday. "We'd like to keep the ball away from them and it doesn't make any difference if its on the ground or through the air."

Jardine was confronted with the possibility of Ohio State winning the flip and then controlling the ball for eight or nine minutes.

"That's a big concern," said Jardine. "But our offense can do the same thing. We've been behind a couple of times and have been able to come back."

The game could become a battle between Archie Griffin of Ohio State and Billy Marek of Wisconsin, two of the better tailbacks in the nation.

Marek bolted 81 yards last Saturday for a touchdown on the first play from scrimmage to set the pace for a 59-20 victory over Missouri.

"The run gave us some life," said Jardine. "We had been standing around in the tunnel for about seven

Blue halts Orioles on two hits

By GORDON BEARD
AP Sports Writer
BALTIMORE (AP) — The Oakland Athletics are on the verge of winning a third straight American League pennant, even without a major internal squabble. But, as usual, tempers are a bit frayed.

And — as the A's beat Baltimore 1-0 Tuesday on Sal Bando's home run and Vida Blue's two-hit pitching — they also got on the Orioles' nerves with their talent and showboating.

The second consecutive shutout, extending Baltimore's nonscoring string to 22 innings, gave the A's a 2-1 lead in the best-of-five championship series between the division leaders.

Jim "Catfish" Hunter, Oakland's 25-game winner who lost the series opener to end his personal seven-game streak against the Orioles, was given the assignment of trying to wrap up the playoffs for the A's in today's game.

Mike Cuellar, a 22-game winner who beat Hunter in the first game, was picked to start for Baltimore provided he can shake off arm stiffness which bothered him Tuesday. Ross Grimsley, an 18-game winner, is on standby.

"It's no fun being down 2-1," said

Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver, whose Orioles rallied from a similar deficit last year before dropping the deciding fifth game. Oakland then went on to win its second straight seven-game World Series.

The A's seem to have the knack of doing what's necessary to win, and that was underscored by Blue and Bando in game No. 3.

Blue, who had failed to win in post-season play while losing two playoff games and two World Series decisions, broke through the barrier with seven strikeouts and no walks. He didn't allow a base runner past first.

"Vida threw the best game of his career," said Bando, who homered on a 3-2 fast ball from Jim Palmer in the fourth inning, "because it was the pressure of a playoff game."

The homer was the second in two games for Bando, who didn't hit any of his 22 regular season homers off Baltimore pitching.

Blue, who won the league's Cy Young pitching award in 1971, hooked up in a classic mound duel with Palmer, last year's Cy Young winner. Palmer, with a 7-1 record in postseason play, allowed just four hits.

And, it was Palmer who accused Oakland slugger Reggie Jackson of "making a farce out of the game" with his home plate gyrations in the ninth inning.

Jackson, playing as Oakland's designated hitter because of aching leg muscles, then added to Palmer's frustrations. He reached first on a single through the box which Palmer called a "routine grounder."

The Baltimore right-hander said the home run pitch came as he tried to throw a strike and avoid starting a possible big inning by issuing a walk.

Griffin nears rushing mark

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Archie Griffin of Ohio State, the National Back of the Week, is surprised he's only two games away from one of college football's treasured records.

The squirming junior tailback has piled up 15 straight games of 100 or more rushing yards. The record is 17 games in a row, set four years ago by Oklahoma's Steve Owens.

"I wasn't even aware of it," Griffin said of Owens' record. "If I could get that, it would be a great honor. I thought Owens was a great runner," added the 5-foot-9, 180-pound Griffin.

His latest gem, 196 yards in a 42-7 romp Saturday over Washington State, earned him The Associated Press weekly honors.

The chief weapon for top-ranked Ohio State has 619 yards in four games this season. He had 867 as a freshman and a Big Ten record 1,577 as a sophomore.

Errors costly to LA

By RON ROACH
AP Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Willie Stargell took a backwards look and could remember another year when the Pittsburgh Pirates had an uphill climb to victory.

"In 1971 in Baltimore, we were supposed to be finished. The newspapers were calling it the St. Valentine's Day Massacre," the Pirates' slugger said of that World Series in which Pittsburgh lost the first two games, then came back to win it all in seven games.

But no team in the five-year history of divisional playoffs has lost the first two games, then won three in a row to qualify for the World Series.

"We can't concern ourselves with what's written and said," said Stargell, who hammered a three-run, first-inning homer as Pittsburgh stayed alive with a 7-0 triumph over the Los Angeles Dodgers Tuesday.

No team has ever come back from an 0-2 deficit in playoffs, but neither had any club committed five errors in a playoff game, until the Dodgers did it Tuesday.

The Dodgers' inept fielding came before a record home crowd of 55,953, and many of them were exiting for the already crowded freeways before the seventh-inning stretch.

"That may have been the worst we looked all season," said Dodger Manager Walt Alton. "I doubt errors become contagious, but if they do I hope the Pirates catch it."

Instead of unpacking the champagne to celebrate their first NL pennant in eight years, the Dodgers were forced into a fourth game.

Don Sutton, who won Saturday's playoff opener, 3-0, was named to pitch today against the first-game loser, Jerry Reuss.

Alton said he would go with Andy Messersmith, the winning pitcher Sunday, if the series requires a fifth game Thursday. Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh said Jim Rooker would be his pitcher if the series goes the limit.

The Pirates blasted Doug Rau for five first-inning runs on the homer by Stargell and a two-run shot by Rich Hebner, and it was a 1971 World Series hero, Bruce Kison, who supplied the effective pitching.

Kison, although only 9-8 in the regular season, continued his amazing post-season record. The lanky right-hander handcuffed the Dodgers on two singles, both by Bill Russell, for 6 2-3 innings, when he tired and was relieved by Ramon Hernandez.

The Pirates broke out of a slump with 10 hits, including a double and two home runs, after getting a total of only 12 singles in the first two games.

"I thought Doug Rau's stuff was all right," said Alton of his starting pitcher who lasted through seven batters in the first inning. "They had only two runs in two games and were pretty likely to break loose against somebody, no matter who the pitcher was."

Ex-Michigan escapee on probation

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—James LeBoeuf, 31, who gained notoriety in 1972 when Ohio refused to extradite him to Michigan for prison escape, is free on probation following a conviction for receiving stolen credit cards.

LeBoeuf was placed on three years probation Tuesday by Hamilton County Common Pleas Court Judge Gilbert Bettman.

He was charged after juveniles told police they stole credit cards to sell to LeBoeuf. LeBoeuf has admitted running away from a northern Michigan prison camp in 1964. He came to Cincinnati, married, fathered a daughter and worked as a printer.

He was heavily involved in Boy Scout and Big Brother projects when arrested in 1972.

LeBoeuf's name was run through a national computer check by police routinely after he went to aid a policeman, thinking the officer was ill in his cruiser. The policeman, however, was involved in a burglary stakeout at the time.

Dozens of community leaders appeared at LeBoeuf's extradition hearing and testified of his high standing in the area. The court denied extradition. Michigan prison authorities then placed him on parole in Cincinnati which was completed in 1973.

LeBoeuf was arrested last June and tried in August on the credit card case. He claimed he was framed and said the prosecution unfairly tagged him as a "Fagin," teaching youths to steal.

Girls and Contact Sports

Do you believe that girls in grade school and high school should be allowed to participate on an equal level with boys in all sports?

Our daughter insists on it and wants us to pursue it in her school. We feel that she's asking for injury.

Mr. and Mrs. R.C.S., Tex. Dear Mr. and Mrs. S.:

There are two obvious aspects to the question. The first, of course, refers to the right of a girl to play in contact and non-contact sports with boys.

In my opinion, there should not be any differentiation of the basic rights of any individual of any sex to freely engage in the sport of his or her choice.

The second aspect of the question is the reality that girls are not usually as hardy, as heavy, as muscular or as tall as boys of the same age.

The body weight, the bone density and the muscle mass is less than that of boys. It would therefore seem to be unwise and even hazardous for the more fragile girls to engage in contact sports like football, soccer, ice hockey basketball and lacrosse along with their harder, heavier male classmates.

I do believe that talented girls can and should compete on all levels in non-contact sports such as baseball, tennis, swimming, gymnastics, track, ice skating and skiing.

And contact sports created specifically for girls can be exhilarating and at the same time be free of potential danger.

Liberation and independence are excellent ideas, but they should not make the liberated one pay too heavy a penalty.

Do you know anything about a ring device that eliminates the tars and nicotine from cigarettes?

My husband uses it and says that now he can smoke as much as he wants, against his doctor's advice.

Mrs. M.N., Mo.

Dear Mrs. N.:

The so-called "smoke ring" gadget has been highly touted by those who manufacture it as the final, safe method of smoking.

When a cigarette is put through the ring it is slightly compressed, and causes air space between the tobacco and the cigarette paper. This is said to reduce the harmful tars.

Dr. Gio Gori, Scientific Director of the National Cancer Institute, reports, "Preliminary testing of the smoke ring has produced no evidence to support the health claims made by the manufacturer."

In the light of this finding, your husband should return to his doctor's instructions and give up both the ring and the cigarettes.

Trash dumping complaint triggers theft arrests

Two 14-year-old area boys have been charged by the Washington C.H. Police Department with operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent. The boys allegedly stole a car owned by Danny Brickles, Washington Hotel, which had been parked at the Washington C.H. Eagles Lodge, 320 Sycamore St., between 3:30 p.m. and 4:45 p.m. Tuesday, with the window rolled down and the keys in the ignition.

Two hit-skip mishaps probed

A hit-skip accident which occurred in the city is currently under investigation by the Washington C.H. Police Department, while a hit-skip accident which occurred in the county is under investigation by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department. Washington C.H. police also reported an additional Tuesday accident, at the Clark service station.

A car owned by Gladys S. Glover, 726 Broadway St., was damaged in the front rear fender by a hit-skip driver, while it was parked at the rear of 526 N. North St.

Police, who are matching paint chips from the unidentified vehicle, stated the moderate damage was discovered at 5 p.m. Tuesday.

A car driven by Loren J. Bennett, 75, of 327 N. Main St., struck a parked auto belonging to Stephen A. Wilson, 34, Greenfield, in the Clark service station lot, W. Court Street, at 7:54 p.m. Tuesday.

Police reported Bennett's vision through his back window was obscured while he was backing up.

Two strands of lights were torn down at Laymon Motor Sales, CCC-Highway-W, sometime between 1:30 p.m. and 2 p.m. Friday, the Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported. Sheriff's deputies are investigating the hit-skip, which was caused by a vehicle approximately 10 feet tall.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department received a trash dumping complaint which was related to the auto theft, when the boys stopped the car in front of the Roger Thompson residence on Miami Trace Road, two miles east of Ohio 41-S, and decided to see what was in the trunk. As they were looking, they discarded what they found, an old tire, a box of empty pop bottles, a cooler, and some plastic containers. When the youths saw Thompson coming, they got back in the vehicle and drove off, leaving the items behind in the roadside ditch.

The car was observed by Auxiliary Sheriff's Deputy John Boylan in the vicinity of Snowhill Road, three-tenths of a mile northeast of Bunker Hill Road, while he was off-duty. The boys stopped the auto and fled to a nearby cornfield to hide. Auxiliary Deputy L.O. Marvin came on the scene and took the juveniles into custody at 9:10 p.m. Tuesday. Both have been released to their parents.

Two workers charged in shotgun theft

A Washington C. H. man and a Columbus man, who were working on the electrical construction at the new K-Mart store on Columbus Avenue, were arrested and charged by Washington C.H. police officers for allegedly stealing two 12-gauge shotguns valued at $142 apiece.

The men, Charles O. Varney, 36, of 331 Rose Ave., and Robert M. Varney, 25, Columbus, have been charged with grand theft.

The incident occurred at 11:25 a.m. Tuesday, while the two men were completing electrical wiring work in the K-Mart stock room. Both are presently free on $2,500 bond each.

Traffic Court

A Washington C.H. man was fined $200 with his operator's license suspended for 30 days on a charge of driving while intoxicated Tuesday in Municipal Court.

Acting Judge John P. Case issued the fine to Freddie L. Howe, 22, of 410 East St., after he pleaded guilty to the charge. Twenty-seven days of a 30-day jail sentence were suspended pending one year good conduct.

James D. Halthcock Jr., 19, of 1028 John St., pleaded no contest to a charge of permitting an unlicensed driver to operate a motor vehicle. He was fined $50.

Michael L. Young, 20, Rt. 2, Washington C.H., was fined $50 after pleading guilty to a charge of making excessive noise with a motor vehicle. A 10-day jail sentence was suspended pending one year good conduct.

J. Herbert Perrill, 65, Rt. 2, Washington C.H., was fined $25 after pleading guilty to a charge of striking a legally parked vehicle.

Those forfeiting bonds Tuesday: Carl W. Howes, 27, Canal Winchester, $18, failure to obey a traffic signal; Pardon F. Mason Jr., 32, Mt. Sterling, $25, failure to yield from stop sign; Robert L. Crabtree, 40, New Boston, $35, expired operator's license; and Charles H. Buck, 36, of 2391 Rowe-Ging Road, Washington C.H., $35, expired operator's license.

Kissinger opens trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — On his sixth mediating trip to the Middle East since the October war, Henry A. Kissinger will test Arab and Israeli enthusiasm for another Sinai withdrawal while searching for a way to link it with an over-all peace settlement.

His journey comes amid increasing tensions between the Arabs and the United States because of disagreements over oil prices. The fast-stepping secretary of state, who set out after midnight from Andrews Air Force Base, plans to visit seven countries within a week, possibly doubling back to Cairo before leaving the Middle East for a final check with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

President Ford and members of his Cabinet drove to Andrews to see Kissinger off on what Ford called "a vitally important mission."

U.S. officials said the trip is unlikely to produce the detailed terms even of the next stage.

Small boy reports sawdust pit fire

A small boy reported a fire at the sawdust pit behind the Washington C.H. Eagles Lodge, 320 Sycamore St., at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Washington C.H. firemen didn't have the lad's name, but were thankful for his observation. They extinguished the flames with water and were on the scene 15 minutes.

Judge dismisses overloaded truck case in Muny Court

Acting Judge John P. Case dismissed a case Tuesday charging a Washington C.H. truck driver with operating an overloaded truck after the arresting patrolman had not sworn to the affidavit.

The jury trial for John C. Sullivan, of 914 E. Market St., was dismissed after the prosecution's first witness, the arresting patrolman, testified he had not sworn to the affidavit.

According to Judge Case, the error did not lie with Highway Patrolman Gary Brackney but with the Ohio Highway Patrol for retaining a policy which did not include being present at the affidavit swearing before the court clerk or notary public.

Sullivan, who had pleaded innocent to the charge, was being defended by two Hamilton attorneys while city prosecutor Gary Smith acted as attorney for the state.

The eight jurors seated were informed of the action contrary to law by Judge Case before issuing the motion for dismissal.

Members of the jury were Mrs. Joanne Thornhill, Oren Crace, Robert Pope, Mrs. Mary Wilt, Harold W. Fenton, Mrs. Betty Robinson, Mrs. Peggy Self and Ms. Jeanette Roush.

4 non-traffic hearings held

Four persons were fined following non-traffic hearings Tuesday in Municipal Court. Acting Judge John P. Case presided.

Dewey Jester, 25, of 622 S. North St., was fined $25 on a charge of criminal mischief. The charge had been filed on a private warrant.

George Dumford, 61, of Chillicothe, was fined $30 after pleading no contest to a charge of disorderly conduct by intoxication.

Robert E. Penwell, 49, of 734 John St., was fined $25 on a charge of disorderly conduct.

A $15 fine was levied against Larry Johnson, 27, of 607 Campbell St. Johnson had been charged on a private warrant for making menacing threats.
